

International shutdown set for Monday

3 U.S. airlines balk at joining strike

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The International Federation of Airline Pilots Association Friday called an unprecedented 24-hour strike for next week to demand stiff U.N. penalties against hijackings. But pilots of three large American lines said they would not support it.

Pilots associations in many other countries, however, backed the strike. And management of one international carrier, Swissair, said it would voluntarily suspend its operations in sympathy.

Most U.S. lines were either waiting word late Friday night or said they planned to run normal flight schedules Monday and were assuming their pilots would show up.

The IFAPA has 50,000 members in 64 countries. The strike would begin at 2 a.m. EDT Monday (11 p.m. PDT).

Pilots for United, American and Braniff International announced they would not join the strike.

The British Airline Pilots Association along with Japanese, Egyptian, and Portuguese pilots also said they will not participate in the walkout.

In response to the planned strike action, a special but informal session of the U.N. Security Council has been called for Monday. Formal action has been delayed because of reluctance by Eastern bloc countries.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim issued a statement Friday night through a spokesman charging that officials of the pilots' association announced the strike without waiting for further consultations with him that they had agreed to in a meeting Thursday.

The spokesman said Waldheim's office had tried unsuccessfully to contact the officials Friday morning to advise them of progress of consultations on a council meeting. "No further word has been received" from the officials, the spokesman said.

The pilots' organization wants the international civil aviation organization to work on a convention setting up sanctions to enforce current treaties designed to stop hijackings.

Nations that signed the Hague Convention of 1970 agreed to return or punish hijackers. But no punishment is provided against nations not complying.

The pilots want the Security Council to support sanctions, such as airline and other transportation boycotts, against nations that harbor sky pirates.

United Airline pilots, notifying the airline they did not plan to support the strike, said:

"We see nothing constructive to be gained by merely in essence 'flexing our own muscles' irresponsibly, thereby inflicting still additional inconvenience upon the traveling public."

In Zurich, Swissair affirmed it would suspend all flight operations Monday in support of the strike. Swissair serves 70 cities in 56 countries including New York, Boston, Chicago and Montreal.

"Swissair has always severely condemned such criminal acts (as hijackings) and shares the concern of the pilots," a spokesman said.

Pilots associations in France, Canada, the Philippines, Israel, Austria, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Kenya and the Netherlands said they would join the strike. Pilots in some other countries held emergency meetings to decide.

West German pilots asked Chancellor Willy Brandt to support the action. The International Transport Workers Federation and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace workers also announced support for the action. The unions represent more than 250,000 ground personnel from airport janitors to airline mechanics.

U.S. weighs action to curb expected food price hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission, faced with a new round of retail food price increases, is beginning to discuss taking action to restrain the rise in coming weeks.

The commission could conceivably freeze food prices or limit the cost that retailers can pass on to purchasers. But any action will be taken only as a last resort, a high commission official said.

The commission will discuss the problem of rising food prices, particularly meat, when it meets Wednesday. The commission staff is expected to be directed to research the impact of a whole range of possible actions.

As the government considers what to do, major retail food chains are passing word to consumer groups that a sharp rise in food prices, especially beef, should be expected soon.

Timothy McEnroe, public relations officer for the National Association of Food Chains, said meetings have been held with consumer groups to tell them to expect a big increase in meat prices because of the sharply rising wholesale price level.

For instance, the price of a wholesale beef carcass has risen to over $60 per hundredweight, the highest in memory, he said. "There doesn't seem to be any stop to it."

Louis Neeb, the Price Commission's executive secretary, said the commission is not certain at this point if anything will be done. He said no one is certain how long the rise in food prices will last.

But he said if the acceleration in food prices upsets consumers enough to damage the credibility of the wage-price control program, then the commission will have to act.

"If they don't start going down and it jeopardizes the program, we're just going to have to act," Neeb said.

EDGAR FIEDLER, chief economist for the Treasury Department, said the possibility of a food-price freeze has been "kicked around" as has limiting the cost that retailers can pass through to consumers. He indicated the government might want to wait to see what develops in hopes that rise will taper off.

"Always the first option is to do nothing," Fiedler said, since the law of supply and demand is at work.

Neeb said one of the main reasons for the upsurge in meat prices, particularly beef, is the strong demand for better cuts by consumers. He said the commission is trying to counteract this demand through educational programs.

Earlier this year, John Connally, then Treasury secretary, called in representatives of the major retail food chains for discussions on food prices and particularly meat. As a result, consumers were told they could expect meat prices to fall.

PRICES dropped for a while but then began going back up. Food prices accelerated at the wholesale level to an annual rate of 9.6 per cent in May, according to the wholesale price index.

Neeb said food prices overall are increasing at a 6 per cent rate this year, double the 3 per cent rate that was predicted last year as the control program got under way.

McEnroe said that any effort to change the control system as it relates to food would be a disaster. Neeb described rationing as a disaster but indicated there could be actions short of that.

This supported the American position and that of other delegations at a Vietnam and the subject of armaments were matters for "other forums."

Bounty offered for bandit in holdup slaying of deaf man

Elliot C. Lawson, 34, was one of the regulars at the Atlantic Inn, 1854 Atlantic Ave. Lawson, who resided at 1590 Seahright Ave., had one main handicap—he was hard of hearing. And it cost him his life.

Lawson was seated at the bar when a robber whipped out a handgun and demanded everyone's money early on the morning of July 16, 1971. He did not hear the bandit order him to turn around and freeze. Lawson was not even aware that a holdup was taking place, for he couldn't hear anything.

He got off his barstool and began walking out of the Atlantic Inn, when at 1:10 a.m. the robber fired without warning, a bullet striking Lawson in the back, killing him instantly. The robber fled with $16 he took from the cash register.

Nine Americans wounded Reds shell big U.S. bases

SAIGON, Saturday (AP) — Communist-led forces today shelled two big U.S. installations in the northern part of South Vietnam from which American forces are being redeployed, wounding nine servicemen and killing four Vietnamese civilians and wounding three.

A half dozen Soviet-built 122mm rockets hit the Da Nang area, which has been under shelling attack the week long. The U.S. Command said one American was wounded and two buildings were damaged at the U.S. airbase which is being turned over to the Vietnamese. Saigon headquarters reported four Vietnamese civilians were killed and three were wounded when one of the rockets landed in a populated area.

AT PHU BAI, in the north of Da Nang, eight Americans were wounded and two buildings damaged in a seven-round rocket barrage, the U.S. Command said.

A U.S. Army helicopter flareship trying to locate the North Vietnamese rocket sites caught fire from a defective flare and crashed five miles southeast of Da Nang. Five Americans were injured.

The United States on Friday began phasing out one of its last two remaining combat infantry brigades in South Vietnam, a unit which provides security at Da Nang and Phu Bai, but American air attacks continued across the southern half of North Vietnam a day after a record 350 air attacks hit three MIG air bases, a naval base and an army barracks.

FOR THE second successive day, the U.S. fighter-bombers stayed away from the Hanoi area as a precaution against any incidents while Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny is visiting the North Vietnamese capital. Details of the latest raids were withheld.

A communique from the U.S. Command reported that the northernmost strike Thursday was against the Ninh Binh railroad and highway bridge, about 60 miles south of Hanoi.

Nearly all the raids were confined to an area between the 17th Parallel demarcation line and the 20th Parallel. The 20th Parallel is about 200 miles north of the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam, and 75 miles south of Hanoi.

THE MAIN targets were three MIG air bases at Bai Thuong, Khe Phat and Quan Lang, where Air Force pilots reported cratering the runways.

"We have effectively stopped MIG activity at these three bases," said an Air Force officer.

The American fighter-bombers ranged up and down the coast to the 20th Parallel, attacking supply trucks, cutting highways and smashing bridges, warehouses and storage depots.

The U.S. Command said five bridges, seven supply barges, three storage depots, 50 trucks, 18 warehouses and three railroad cars were destroyed or damaged.

In another big raid, Navy pilots from the carrier Midway attacked the Hai Yen naval base six miles northeast of Vinh on the Song Ca River and reported damaging one pier and destroying two supply craft. Vinh is about 125 miles inside North Vietnam.

THE BADONG army barracks, about 65 miles north of the demilitarized zone, also was reported damaged.

Radio Hanoi claimed that despite the air blows, traffic is still running and supplies are flowing to the front.

"While the enemy is multiplying his bomb tonnage, our people are multiplying at an even higher rate our determination to fight victoriously," the broadcast said, quoting an article in the official newspaper Nhan Dan.

The United States began phasing out one of its last two remaining combat infantry brigades in South Vietnam.

The headquarters of the 196th Infantry Brigade, based at Da Nang, and two of its battalions began deactivating. More fighter-bombers from the Da Nang air base were shifted to bases in Thailand to continue the U.S. air campaign in Indochina.

THE MOVES are aimed at reducing U.S. troop levels in Vietnam from the present 61,900 to 49,000 during the next two weeks, as ordered by President Nixon under the Vietnamization program.

But the Nixon administration

Irvings sentenced in Hughes book hoax

Combined News Services

Clifford Irving was sentenced to two and a half years in prison, his wife Edith was given a two month term and they were fined $10,000 each Friday in New York for concocting the literary fraud of the century — the bogus Howard Hughes autobiography.

Richard Suskind, a researcher for Irving, received a six month jail sentence.

Attorneys for Irving, who apparently feared a jail term and was rushing work on a new book about how he engineered the million-dollar-plus hoax, indicated they would appeal.

The $20,000 in fines was $400,000 less than the half a million dollars Irving reportedly is asking Laneer Books Inc. of New York for his new manuscript.

In low voices, barely audible to either spectators or federal Judge John M. Cannella, both Irvings approached the melodramatic in their passionate pleas for clemency.

His voice breaking, the 41-year-old Irving said, "What I did was for our children. And the thought of prison and what it would mean to all of us..."

His voice trailed off and he lowered his head, apparently unable to go on. Cannella told him to take his time and Irving finally continued. "I've lived as a free man, but I abused my freedom and tremble that it not be lost, as I fear prison."

The 36-year-old Mrs. Irving in a voice so soft the judge had to leave the bench to hear her, said, "I don't still understand how everything happened. I'm only making one demand. That you do not send us to jail. I will try to keep the family together. I ask for your mercy and let us go home and everything will be all right again."

The judge said he was giving them shorter sentences than he had planned, and staggered the surrender dates so Irving would be at liberty to tend to their two small sons while Edith was in jail. She was ordered to begin her term Monday and will be released before Irving must begin his sentence Aug. 28.

Nonlibber

An 18-year-old girl, maintaining she was not doing anything for "the sake of women's liberation," was sworn in Friday as the first female member of the Iowa National Guard.

Judith Anderson, Webster City, was sworn in by Gov. Robert D. Ray at ceremonies at the statehouse in Des Moines. She leaves next Friday for six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

"I decided about one month ago this is what I wanted to do and I am certainly not an advocate of women's lib," said Miss Anderson, who graduated from Webster City High School this month. "I believe any woman can do what a man can do in some special cases, and one of those is joining the National Guard."

Fischer has foe's sympathy

Boris Spassky, the world chess champion, said Friday in Moscow he felt sorry for American challenger Bobby Fischer because of his "persecution mania" but considered him a "remarkable" player without whom the world of chess would be "very dull."

"If I had the freedom to choose my challenger I would ask for Fischer," Spassky told a news conference. Their world championship matches start July 2 at Reykjavik, Iceland.

Spassky, 35, was reluctant to comment on the 29-year-old Fischer's boasts that he would win the championship and his accusations that the Russians had plotted to deprive him of the title by arranging to hold the games in Iceland.

But, after repeated questioning, he said Fischer's "remarks make a strange impression. He appears to have a persecution mania and thinks Soviet chess players want to harm him. There is nothing to it and I feel sorry for Fischer."

Spassky also defended Fischer against charges of an overriding interest in making money from chess.

Premier of Japan quits

Combined News Services

TOKYO (Saturday) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, saying he had accomplished most of what he set out to do, announced his resignation early today after a record postwar tenure of almost eight years as head of Japan's government. The announcement by the 71-year-old prime minister had been long anticipated, and four candidates already have lined up to succeed him.

Sato made the announcement of his retirement at a general meeting of his Liberal Democratic Party members in both houses of the Diet (parliament). His speech was broadcast nationwide by radio and television. Sato's government guided Japan into its current position as the third most powerful industrial nation in the world after the United States and the Soviet Union. He has been Japanese premier since Nov. 9, 1964.

LDP sources said a party convention will be held July 5 in Tokyo to elect a new party president, who by tradition will become the next prime minister. Sato's resignation actually will not become effective until then.

WASHINGTON — The Securities and Exchange Commission accused International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and the two of its top officers Friday of violating federal securities laws in connection with the disputed antitrust settlement with the government last year. The two senior executives named in the suit were accused of selling their shares in ITT after receiving inside information of the antitrust settlement with the government before it was publicly announced last July 31. The SEC said the executives were Howard J. Aibel, senior vice president and general counsel, and John J. Navin, corporate secretary and counsel for corporate affairs.

WASHINGTON — A federal judge Friday ordered a new election of top officers of the United Mine Workers and imposed what sources said was probably the toughest federal control over a labor union in the nation's history. U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant ordered the elections held before the end of this year and gave Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson virtually complete control over union affairs until after the vote.

SANTA BARBARA — Sheriff's Capt. Joel B. The unanimous decision by the county Civil Service Commission said the sheriff's office had failed to prove 10 of 12 charges against the 34-year-old officer. Honey is owed about $9,350 in back pay, an official said.

The retirement from the FBI Friday of John P. Mohr at age 62 marks the departure of the last of the top-rung of advisers surrounding the late J. Edgar Hoover.

It leaves the way clear for Acting Director L. Patrick Gray III to name his own men who will no doubt help shape the agency in a different image. Mohr, as assistant to the director and a veteran of 33 years with the FBI, will retire at the end of the month. He had served in the topnotch assistant to the director's job in charge of five major divisions since December 1959.

Mohr joins Clyde A. Tolson and Alex Rosen in the exodus of the three top FBI officials directly under Hoover for decades.

The two-year terrorist spree of a 37-year-old German woman who abandoned husband and twin daughters in favor of left-wing anarchism ended Friday with her capture.

Ulrike Meinhof's arrest in the Hannover suburb of Langenhagen Thursday left only one teen-aged girl of a gang originally numbering about 40 still at large.

Victims of the gang Mrs. Meinhof led together with a small-time thief named Andreas Baader, 29, included four American soldiers killed by bombs and three West German policemen shot to death.

How the county budget could be a rosy garden

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors this weekend are honing their pruning shears for their annual assault on the ever-growing county budget.

With the proposed 1972-73 spending program now standing at $2.27 billion and a tax cut of 21.2 cents in the offing, the casual observer might believe all is rosy in the garden.

And this sense of complacency could be heightened by the knowledge that two of the three supervisors up for election in the June 6 primary already have secured their seats on the board with majority wins in the initial test.

However, supervisors have indicated a marked intention this year to show the public that the county is the leader among local government agencies in reducing taxes. And chances are that the tax rate could be sliced by as much as 35 to 40 cents per $100 of assessed valuation by the time board members have finished their trimming job.

Part of the motivation for the economy mood is the fact that supervisors — and the taxpayers through the press — know that the preliminary budget as it now stands includes more than a $100-million surplus from last year.

AND THE big question hanging over the budget package now is: Just how much of that $100-million surplus has been used to cover increased spending in many county departments?

Earlier this year when it was first learned an over-estimated welfare budget would produce a $40-million surplus, board members were adamant that the excess should be used to reduce the property tax rate.

By the time Chief Administrative Officer Arthur Will had produced his proposed budget April 25, the surplus from welfare and other sources had grown to $82.5 million, and last week Will was able to produce a further $20-million surplus from his treasury bag.

In the simplest of breakdown terms a $100-million chagge in spending requirements or available funds would shift the county tax rate by 56 cents either way.

Thus, assuming spending in all county departments were to remain at last year's level, and the $100 million surplus were to be applied directly to the spending program, one could assume that the tax rate would come down 56 cents.

THIS, of course, is a far cry from the 21.2-cent cut now being proposed. And though supervisors recognize county spending cannot remain at a standstill on all levels, their job will be to decide which burgeoning buds to snip and which to let grow.

Perhaps an indication of the supervisors' moods was given in a recent exchange over the budget deliberations when Board Chairman Warren Dorn told his colleagues, "I want to see at least $26 million cut from the budget."

"Well, I can see $27 million coming off," said Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, to which Supervisor Ernest Debs replied, "If this is a bidding match, I bid $50 million."

As gardening taxpayers know, there's many a lip twist the cut and the snip. But if only half the supervisors' talk gets transplanted into action, the outcome for the taxpayer this year can only be measured in terms of roses.

Funding OK seen for UC hospital role

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors Tuesday are expected to approve an increase of $404,000 in the annual fee paid to the University of California at Los Angeles for teaching and patient care services at Harbor General and other county hospitals.

The increase would bring to $1.9 million the annual amount paid to UCLA for about 43,000 hours of doctors' and dentists' time at Harbor General and about 5,000 hours at the recently acquired Mid-Valley hospital serving as a replacement for the Olive View Medical Center destroyed in the earthquake Feb. 9, 1971.

Officials said the increase would be partly offset by an estimated $240,000 in federal and state revenue for the Medicare and Medi-Cal programs.

At the same time supervisors also are expected to increase the annual fee paid to the University of Southern California for similar services at the County-USC Medical Center from $6.1 million to $7 million.

Officials said USC had agreed to provide an extra 38,270 hours of doctors' time for the $880,000 increase.

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Reagan has signed legislation blocking construction of the controversial Cross-town Freeway through Long Beach, his office has announced.

The governor's signature on SB 230, introduced by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, means the Route 1 freeway through Long Beach will not be built.

Deukmejian's measure, cosponsored by Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, and Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, deletes the proposed freeway from the state highway system.

He said during hearings on the bill that so many other sections of the Route 1 freeway had been deleted at the request of the in-involved communities that the Cross-town Freeway would be little more than an intra-city arterial if it were built.

In addition, he said, revised traffic projections indicated the arterial would not be needed because city streets, together with the San Diego and Artesia freeways, could meet present and future east-west traffic needs.

Several years ago the Long Beach City Council agreed to the adopted state route for the freeway, but community opposition last year persuaded the council to rescind its action.

In signing the legislation, Reagan said: "It has been a policy of this administration that local communities will be given a voice in the placing of transportation facilities. Removal of this state highway from the freeway and expressway system provides the opportunity for a cooperative review of whether a freeway or some other transportation facility is most appropriate.

"This concept was incorporated in last year's announcement of our transportation corridor policy.

I realize that the deletion of Routes 1 and 22 from the freeway and expressway system does not offer a solution to the transportation problems in the City of Long Beach, but I believe that this bill contributes to the climate of cooperation between state and local government that will lead of a solution."

Socially secure?

In June, 1971, I started getting Social Security benefits. I worked during that year, but after I applied for benefits, I was very careful about not making more money than the allowed amount. I recently got a letter from the Social Security payment center in Kansas City, Mo. stating that I made too much money in 1971, and my benefits are being withheld until July. Since I received benefits for only part of the year, how can the government count my entire year's earnings? N.H., Costa Mesa.

The Social Security Administration does not count any income earned before you began receiving benefits unless your first Social Security check was a retroactive payment. For example, if you were eligible for Social Security in January, 1971, but you didn't apply until June, your initial payment would have covered the first six months of the year. If you were not eligible until June, the income from any preceding month would not be considered. A spokesman for the Social Security office in Santa Ana said that you should bring your original award letter showing the amount of your first payment plus any correspondence from Kansas City to the office at 1438 E. First St., and a representative will explain the situation to you.

Too piercing, Man!

Who operates the volume control for the music during the shows at the Long Beach Arena? The music was so loud that I came away from the Ice Capades and the Polack Brother's Circus with my ears ringing. How can I get softer music at the Arena? G.N., Long Beach.

Maybe by complaining about it during the performance. Each show regulates its own sound and sets the level they need according to the nature of the show and the size of the building, said Richard Shaff, assistant manager of the Arena. He said it is essential that the performers be able to hear the music. Shaff said he didn't get any serious complaints about loud music during those two shows but if he had he "would have talked to the show people about it."

Retreat

Some time ago I read about a nondenominational retreat conducted by a priest near Porterville, Calif. Can you give me any information about this? R.E.M., Cypress.

More than likely you are referring to St. Anthony Retreat near Porterville two miles east of Three Rivers in the San Joaquin Valley. Built in 1955 exclusively for retreats, the place is run by Franciscan Fathers but is open to people of any religion. Retreats are held on weekends for men, women and married couples and weekdays for school and religious groups. During a retreat, a person spends his time in meditation and at religious conferences with the Fathers. Mass is offered and confessions are heard for those who want to attend. There are no fixed rates but for a weekend it is customary for an individual to pay $25 and a couple, $40. We are mailing you a brochure on the retreat. To make reservations, write them at P.O. Box 248, Three Rivers, Calif. 93271, or phone them at (209) 561-4595.

Mirror finish

Is there any way I can refinish mirrors myself? It seems such a costly thing to have done and I live on a very limited income. Mrs. A. C., Long Beach.

You could possibly re-silver a mirror yourself, but the cost and complications involved are prohibitive, according to a spokesman for the Student Science Center, 3315 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles. Silver nitrate alone, the most important ingredient in re-silvering a mirror, is $6 an ounce. Occasionally, he said, less expensive substitute silvering substances are advertised by mail-order scientific supply houses in the classified ad sections of magazines such as Popular Science and Popular Mechanics. You might be able to do a crude job of refinish- ing the back of the glass yourself with one of these. A spokesman for the Marine Glass Co., 1350 Daisy Ave., explained the commercial re-silvering process is quite complicated and involves heavy equipment, acid baths and numerous steps. The company will do the work for about $2 a square foot but the spokesman said "we don't suggest re-silvering unless the mirror has tremendous sentimental value. It's much cheaper to buy a new mirror."

Bomb case may stall Abrams promotion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Questions about whether Gen. Creighton W. Abrams played a role in the unauthorized U.S. bombing of North Vietnam create a "potentially explosive" complication to his possible appointment as the next Army chief of staff, Senate sources said Friday.

Abrams, now commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia, is mostly likely candidate to succeed Gen. William C. Westmoreland as chief of staff when Westmoreland retires June 30.

Should President Nixon nominate Abrams for the post, sources said, the Senate Armed Services Committee will probably question the general closely in his confirmation hearings about whether he knew of the unauthorized bombing raids ordered by Air Force Gen. John D. Lavelle.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who has called for Lavelle's court martial, told UPI he would raise questions about the bombing on the Senate floor if he felt the committee hearings did not adequately cover the matter.

Lavelle was relieved of command over U.S. air operations in Southeast Asia and demoted in April as a result of the bombing incidents. In House hearings Monday, Lavelle took full responsibility for the approximately 20 raids, but said he believed Abrams knew about them.

"If ABRAMS is nominated this is a potentially explosive subject," one source said. "But it should not keep him from being confirmed if he did not know the bombing was unauthorized."

In addition to Abrams, the other two top candidates for the chief of staff post are believed to be Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, now Abrams' deputy in Vietnam, and Gen. Michael S. Davison, U.S. Army commander in Europe. Sources said the nomination of Weyand would raise similar questions to those involved in Abrams' nomination.

Unless a new chief of staff is named and confirmed before June 30, the Army will for the first time since the post was created in 1903 find itself temporarily without a chief of staff. The Senate adjourns June 30 and will not return until July 17, after the Democratic convention.

Several senior Army officials have expressed concern the Lavelle incident might delay — or even possibly prevent — Abrams' appointment because of Lavelle's statement before the House Armed Services Committee.

LAVELLE told the committee in his testimony "in certain instances, against high priority targets, I made interpretations that were probably beyond the literal intention of the rules."

"I think General Abrams knew what I was doing. But I'm positive that General Abrams had no idea what the reporting requirements were. He never worried or sat down and debated our rules of engagement before we did it."

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.,

GEN. C. W. ABRAMS Faces Tough Interrogation

the committee member who forwarded a letter about the bombing to the Pentagon, both declined to discuss ramifications of the Lavelle incident.

PROXMIRE, however, said in a telephone interview he felt the nominee for the chief of staff job should be questioned about his views on the subject — and should that nominee be Abrams — about whether he knew the raids were in violation of U.S. policy at the time.

"If Abrams knew about the raids, but didn't know they were violations, I don't think there would be any guilt on his part," Proxmire said. "I think certainly this would be a very proper line of inquiry for any man who is promoted to such a high position."

'Conspicuous consumption canonized' Military aid missions ripped

JOHN W. FINNEY New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire Friday charged that military aid missions abroad have become so "top heavy" with generals and admirals that "we are nearing the point where we have all chiefs and no Indians."

As examples of how the military aid program has "canonized conspicuous consumption" by generals and admirals, the Wisconsin Democrat cited the following cases:

—In India, a brigadier general heads a nine-man military aid mission that last year had $337,000 in administrative expenses to disperse $234,000 in military assistance.

— In Pakistan, a brigadier general heads an eight-man mission whose personnel costs are nearly double the value of the $243,000 military aid program to the country.

In Brazil, there are three flag officers—an Army major general, a Navy rear admiral, and an Air Force brigadier general — for a military aid program estimated at $988,000 administered by a 54-man U.S. mission.

Proxmire is chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that has just completed hearings on the military aid program for the coming fiscal year. With his statement, he was laying the basis for cutting military aid by appealing to a common congressional sentiment that the military has too many generals and admirals.

The Senate is presently considering a bill authorizing $1.7 billion in military aid, some $500 million less than requested by the administration. The Senate Friday, by a 40-22 vote, accepted an administration amendment overturning a provision that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had written into the authorization bill requiring countries to put 25 per cent of the total of military aid they receive from the United States into a local currency fund that could be used by the United States.

Arguing the administration's case, Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., contended the present 10 per cent requirement would place an "onerous burden" on many countries receiving U.S. military aid.

In the coming week, administration forces in the Senate will attempt to restore the monetary reductions made in the authorization bill by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

If the administration succeeds—as seems likely—then Proxmire made clear he would renew the fight to reduce the program when it comes to the appropriations bill providing the actual funds for military aid.

Large amounts of mail torched

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A 27-year-old man was being held by Cincinnati Police Friday after he allegedly broke into a U.S. Post Office and set fire to large quantities of mail.

Richard Truitt, address unknown, was charged with arson and burglary of an uninhabited dwelling.

Chou defends Reds in Viet, hails U.S. antiwar protesters

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Premier Chou En-lai of China, speaking at a dinner party preceding the imminent visit of presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, volunteered a long, emotional defense of the Vietnamese Communists Friday night, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported in a copyrighted story.

Chou also said activities of some American antiwar protesters gave him "great hopes."

Richard Dudman, chief Washington correspondent for the newspaper, filed the report after being called unexpectedly back to Peking from a visit to Eastern China.

Dudman reported that it was difficult to tell whether Chou's invitation to attend the dinner party, issued to a small group of Americans, was deliberately timed to precede Kissinger's visit.

KISSINGER, President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, is expected in Peking Monday for four days of talks with Chinese leaders. The purpose of the trip has not been spelled out.

Dudman reported that Chou "was not particularly

Immigration, river pacts with Mexico

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria announced Friday agreements have been reached with President Nixon on reducing the salinity of the Colorado River and on the problem of illegal immigration from Mexico.

Speaking before a National Press Club luncheon, Echeverria said that he and President Nixon agreed that the salt content of the Colorado River water should be the same on both sides of the border between the two countries.

Echeverria, here on the second day of a two-day state visit, had denounced the United States Thursday for not taking decisive action to resolve the problem and said the result has been poverty for thousands of Mexican farmers.

He also announced Friday that the two governments would form a commission to study the problem of Mexican farm workers who enter the United States illegally in search of employment.

He said that in addition to the illegal entry of thousands of Mexican nationals the problem also involves their "employment and exploitation" by U.S. farmers in violation of the law.

Details on these agreements and other subjects Echeverria discussed with Nixon will be included in a joint communique to be released Saturday.

Backlash to economic controls Curbs peril firms' solvency

By PHILLIP SHABECOFF

WASHINGTON — The wage and price controls program is beginning to create what administration officials call "unforeseen disturbances" in the economy that, if unchecked, could lead to widespread business bankruptcies and other dislocations in the marketplace.

So far, these disturbances are limited and are related largely to the Price Commission's price rollback policies and to the exemption of small businesses from the controls program, administration and members of Congress already are receiving

BUT THE administration and members of Congress already are receiving complaints from constituents who say they are threatened by bankruptcy as a result of these policies. Trade organizations are now warning of severe inequities that will arise if the controls program continues for any length of time.

C. Jackson Grayson, chairman of the Price Commission, and other stabilization officials concede these disturbances are beginning to crop up and say that the program will be modified to deal with them if necessary.

One example of this unexpected market disturbance was a recent order by the Price Commission to Piggly Wiggly Southern Inc., a food chain with headquarters in Georgia, to roll back some of its prices. The commission found that the chain had exceeded its allowable profit margin and ordered that prices be lowered to end the violation and to restore the overcharge to consumers.

Piggly Wiggly was unhappy with the order and went to court to obtain relief.

But, according to commission officials, the chain did sharply lower the price of some 1,000 items to serve as loss leaders. Piggly Wiggly officials would not comment because of the pending legal action, but the idea, apparently, was that they would lower prices enough to satisfy the profit margin requirements while at the same time promote their business.

ONE RESULT, however, was that small business in communities where Piggly Wiggly instituted this policy, chiefly in Georgia, began to lose their customers to the chain.

Members of Congress from Georgia have been receiving dozens of letters from small businessmen saying that they were not able to match Piggly Wiggly's price reductions and may be driven out of business.

Price Commission officials point to the Piggly Wiggly case as evidence of how its profit margins test works to control inflation. But they concede that the side effects were unforeseen.

Dr. Albert H. Small, assistant director of program operations for the commission, noted that the Price Commission has now come to recognize that a price rollback might injure competitors of companies making the rollback. There are only a few incidents of this happening now, he said. "But we realize that if company after company rolls back prices, small businesses will be up against the wall," he added.

HE DISCLOSED that the commission is now examining ways to shift the focus of its rollback orders. Up to now, he said, the commission has been concerned entirely with achieving price reductions by offenders.

Now, Small said, the commission is considering requiring companies ordered to make rollbacks to submit plans not only describing how they will reduce prices but also plans to reduce the impact of those reductions on small businesses and to avoid market disruptions.

Another unforeseen consequence of the price rollback policy was described by an official of the Cost of Living Council, the administration's top stabilization agency. Another Southern retail food chain, Bruno Stores Inc., was ordered to roll back its prices after the price commission found it had gone slightly over its base period profit margin.

TO COMPLY with the order, the company cut the price of several items such as coffee to rock-bottom prices, according to the council official.

What happened, however, was that the flow prices attracted so many new customers and generated such higher sales of other products that the store's profit margin actually widened by a considerable degree rather than going down as planned, the official reported.

Bruno officials could not be reached for comment.

Price Commission officials said that they had not anticipated this "loop effect" when ordering price reductions.

However, he added that failed to reduce its profit margin, the commission might be sympathetic to pleas that it not assess treble damages as it would under normal circumstances.

WAGES, TOO are starting to be caught in these anomalies created by the stabilization program rules. Recently the Cost of Living Council suspended an order by the District of Columbia government raising the minimum wage of hotel and restaurant workers from $1.60 to $2.25 an

The reason, the council said, was that small businesses which are exempt from controls would be mandated to pay the minimum wage while big companies still under controls would have to pay no more than a 5.5 per cent increase under Pay Board rules. The result would have been a severe competitive disadvantage for the small companies.

The administration foresees more problems of a similar nature on the road ahead.

Business, industry and labor groups are worried about these side effects.

"RIGHT NOW these are isolated incidents," an official of National Association of Food Chains commented. "But there is no mistaking the fact that the controls are set up to favor the efficient companies with big sales bases. This is fine for those companies."

"But if these controls continue for a long period of time, we are going to see a rash of bankruptcies among the other companies that are not as efficient."

Chinatown war stymies police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police officials said Friday that Chinatown residents appear unwilling to help solve a wave of murders and assaults resembling the Tong wars of two generations ago.

Police Chief Donald Scott held a "parley" of department agencies to try and find ways of getting information about recent killings and assaults in Chinatown.

Since March 1970, there have been nine homicides of Orientals by Orientals, and since the beginning of this year there have been 17 aggravated assaults of the same nature, Lt. Clem Deamicis, the police department spokesman, said.

"There are obvious gang overtones, obvious power struggles going on between some of the gangs and the young foreign-born Chinese are having a great deal of difficulties being assimilated in the United States," Deamicis said.

Many of Chinatown's 70,000 residents have witnessed the murders, assaults and other crimes but because of either "fear or cultural tradition" don't want to appear in court.

"People have seen crimes and know the perpetrators. There have been shootings in front of 25 or 30 witnesses, but when the police arrive, they get zero cooperation," Deamicis said.

The lieutenant said the young foreign-born Chinese have problems in schooling and getting jobs. They develop a drifting-type attitude and in many instances show an obvious lack of respect for the lives of others, he said.

Other cities, such as Los Angeles, New York and Sacramento, were beginning to find the same kind of gang and intergroup activities, he said.

"We're trying to develop our own network of information," Deamicis said of the conference held Thursday. "We can't be 100 percent effective because obviously we can't put a policeman everywhere."

The meeting was attended by investigators from homicide, juvenile, narcotics, gambling and Central Station, which patrols Chinatown. A representative of a federal strike force with access to numerous federal agencies, such as customs and immigration, took part.

"It's literally the people of Chinatown's lives we're worried about," said Deamicis.

He said the session was devoted to proposals on how to "overcome the cultural and traditional differences between Orientals and how they respond to the police community."

He said a secondary network of information can be developed that was exclusively law enforcement but that this would only be "patchwork" in the attempt to stem the crime tide.

He said the citizens of the Chinese community would have to cooperate or it would be necessary for policemen to be at the scene, witness the crime, arrest the perpetrator and testify in court.

Bystanders nab suspect in bank robbery

A bank customer and two men walking along South Atlantic Boulevard Friday teamed up to capture a suspect in the robbery of the Mechanics National Bank in Cudahy, sheriff's deputies said.

Officers said a man walked up to a teller at 2 p.m. and said he had a gun. He took $982 and fled from the bank at 7901 S. Atlantic Blvd.

Bob Taylor, 31, of 219 N. Long Beach Blvd., Compton, was standing in line behind the suspect when the robbery occurred. Deputies said Taylor left the bank behind the suspect, jumped into his car and followed the man as he fled along the sidewalk.

Johnnie Crisco, 28, of 4845 E. Santa Ana St., Cudahy, and his roommate, Richie Lang, 18, grabbed the fleeing man. Taylor jumped out of his car and the three men held the suspect until deputies arrived. He was captured a block from the bank.

Joseph A. Marsh, 55, of 6940 Pacific Blvd., Apt. 1, Huntington Beach, was booked at the Firestone Sheriff's Station for investigation of robbery.

victim of the man who killed Elliot C. Lawson.

Long Beach robbery detectives report that witnesses to the holdup described the suspect as a Negro, about 25 years old, 5-feet-7, 130 pounds, with a two-inch, neat Afro hairdo. The man has a slender nose, and a smooth, medium-colored complexion. He has a deep voice, is straight in posture and is well groomed.

If you have information about the Atlantic Inn holdup in which Elliott Lawson was killed, telephone Secret Witness at 438-2526 from 8 a.m. to midnight weekdays, or from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Or write to Secret Witness at this address: Secret Witness, P. O. Box 67, Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

Secret Witness currently is offering $11,000 in rewards in six other cases: —A $2,000 reward is in effect for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who killed Horace William Clark, 19, a Marine corporal stationed at Camp Pendleton, who was stabbed to death in Wilmington last Christmas Day. Clark left the base alone at about 8 a.m. to have Christmas dinner with friends in Wilmington, but never arrived. His body was found the next morning beside a dirt road leading to a junkyard at 831 Sampson Ave.

—A $2,000 reward is in effect for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of cab driver Michael A. Miller, 27, of Downey, who worked the night shift for the Southeast Taxi Co., Compton. Miller was found dead at about 11:20 June 8. He had been shot twice in the back of the head in the 200 block of E. Reeve Street. Robbery apparently was not the motive for the slaying.

—A $2,000 reward is in force for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer of Independent, Press-Telegram pressman Frank M. Schiavone, 41, and his wife, Shirley, 44, who were shot from ambush May 9 upon returning to their home in Westminster after an evening out. Westminster police are seeking to question a man believed to have been the last person to have seen the Schiavones alive. The man was with them in Woody's Bar, Springdale Avenue and Garden Grove Boulevard, Westminster, shortly before they were murdered. He is described as a white man, in his mid-20s to early 30s, from 5-feet-10 to 6-feet-11 in height, with wavy, dark brown hair, a medium-dark, olive complexion and a pock-marked, square face with high cheekbones.

—A reward of $2,000 is offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of Long Beach auto wholesaler Robert Wilson Cogley, 44, shot to death in the parking lot of the Highway Center Liquor Store, Pacific Coast Highway and California Avenue, at 1:40 a.m. last Aug. 12. Cogley's killers are described as Negroes between 16 and 19 years old, and from 5-feet-7 to 5-feet-10 in height.

—One thousand dollars for information leading to the capture of fugitive Clinton Hamer Baker, alias Bobby Joe Brummet, who escaped from a state prison camp in Tulare County last Oct. 3. Baker, 31, was serving a sentence for robbery and assault after being captured in Long Beach when accidentally wounded by his woman holdup partner in an abortive stickup attempt at Poor Richard's Bar, 6412 E. Stearns St., on March 1, 1970. Baker is a white man, 5-feet-11, weighing about 170 pounds, pale complexion, medium build with brown hair and hazel eyes. He has friends and relatives living in Inglewood and may be frequenting the Long Beach area.

—A $2,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the killer of cab driver Donald Eugene Beard, 44, shot to death Dec. 24 in the 1200 block of Loma Vista Drive at about 4:20 a.m. Prior to his death, Beard told police a car containing five Negro men pulled up to the curb and that the man sitting on the front passenger's seat asked him how to get to Willow Street, aimed a pistol and fired. The bullet struck Beard in the chest and he bled to death.

$500 television set stolen from home

A TV set valued at $500 was taken from the home of Vivian Benninger, 576 Bellflower Blvd. by Burglars who pried open a bedroom door to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

How to use Secret Witness

Secret Witness seeks information from the public leading to the capture of fugitives and the arrest and conviction of other criminals. For this purpose, a guaranteed fund of $100,000 has been established by The Independent, Press-Telegram to be used for rewards of varying amounts.

Identities of informants will be kept secret. You will be paid a reward if the information you give Secret Witness results in the arrest and conviction of a criminal, or the capture of a fugitive, in cases publicized in this column. Rewards also will be paid for information resulting in arrests and convictions in cases not publicized by Secret Witness.

To contact Secret Witness, telephone 438-2526 from 8 a.m. to midnight weekdays, or from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Do NOT give us your name. Or, write to Secret Witness at the following address: Secret Witness, P.O. Box 67, Long Beach, Calif., 90801.

Politicos woo Black Caucus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The congressional Black Caucus, displaying increasing political muscle, Friday night drew several thousand supporters and three presidential candidates to its second annual fund-raising dinner in Washington's largest ballroom.

The caucus, made up of 13 black Democrats serving in the House, was host to both Sens. George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey, Rep. Shirley Chisholm, the third presidential aspirant present, is a caucus member.

Reports circulated at the $100-a-plate gathering that half a dozen or more of the congressional blacks were planning to endorse McGovern and potentially add at least 100 more convention delegates to his mounting total.

One caucus member, who asked not to be quoted by name, said the endorsements only awaited the cleanup of negotiations with McGovern over support of a "black bill of rights" developed by the 13 House members in the last year.

THERE WERE differing reports on how many uncommitted Negro delegates might actually be brought into the McGovern camp by the black members of Congress. One congressman said the total was 101, but another indicated it might be as high as 140. The estimates did not include black delegates already committed to Mrs. Chisholm, according to the caucus members.

There was no timetable for the endorsements mentioned and one member said he believed published reports that McGovern would have the additional support by the middle of next week were exaggerated.

Dr. Wilson Riles, California state superintendent of schools, was the main speaker.

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, chairman of the caucus, told the diners that the black bill of rights would be presented to the Democrats at Miami Beach in August and perhaps will take a leave of absence to lend support to his brother.

However, Donald Nixon, who lives in Newport Beach, said that he plans to attend the Republican National Convention at Miami Beach in August and perhaps will take a leave of absence to lend support to his brother.

Kennick proposes 'public lobbyists'

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

State Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, said Friday "enlightened public opinion, sufficiently aroused" is the best guide for state legislators facing problems "almost beyond the reach of men — almost beyond solution."

Speaking before the Third Friday Forum at Lakewood Country Club, Kennick said California's problems were solvable a few years ago and "there was an element of fun attached to legislation" but today "it would be stretching the truth to say that we are moving with commendable speed" in such areas as:

Cleaning up the environment without destroying job-producing technology; cutting the non-deserving from welfare rolls without dehumanizing the system; revising the tax structure, closing loopholes to the rich; protecting the consumer, especially the unsophisticated consumer, without tying up commerce; providing a good, adequate education for all and guaranteeing rights for all — women, youth and the disadvantaged.

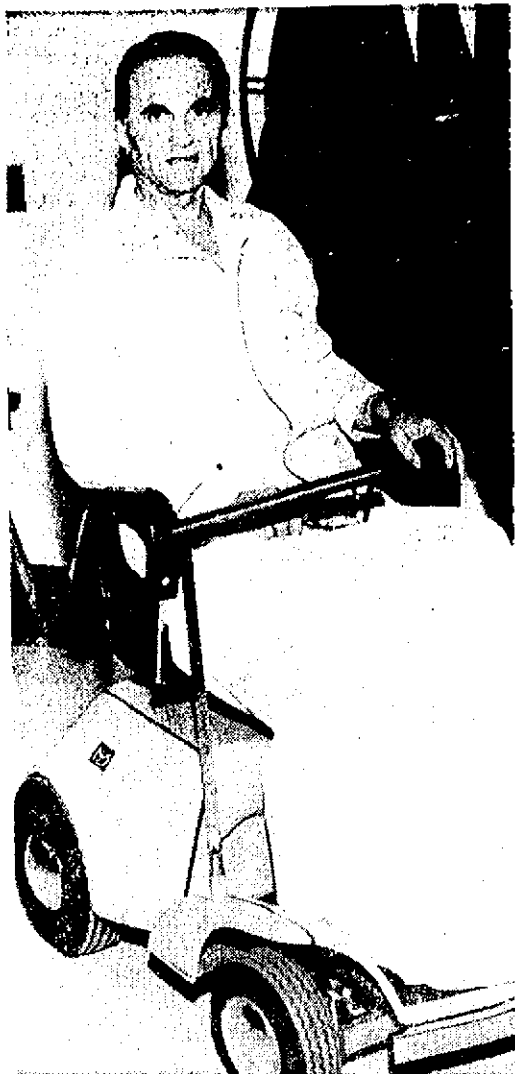

Kennick stressed the importance of voter "lobbyists" reading bills and knowing what's in them. He cited the case of Long Beach people who were fighting increased Long Beach Airport traffic and the cross-town freeway and at the same time lobbying for state legislation that would have established a state agency to control all air and land transportation in California.

"Don't let remote Sacramento planners or downtown boosters" cloud the view, he said.

Kennick said he is not optimistic about prospects for a solution to smog or for state legislative ratification of the U.S. constitution rights for women. Neither blockage makes much sense in Kennick's view — the equal rights amendment is tied up in his own Senate Rules Committee despite his own votes to send it to the full Senate; and the smog persists, even gets worse in some places "while we're sending men to the moon in machines from the funny books."

Welfare, despite many abuses, has a good side, Kennick said, especially with regard to old people. He credited progressive Democratic administrations for today's contrast from his memories of a Nebraska childhood in which he watched old people at the poor farm; and later when Rancho Los Amigos was Los Angeles County's poor farm.

Wallace spine surgery Sunday

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI) — George Wallace, determined to be at the Democratic National Convention July 10, will undergo surgery Sunday for removal of a bullet lodged near his spine since the May 15 assassination attempt that has left him partially paralyzed.

The Alabama governor's press secretary, Billy Joe Camp, said Friday the operation would take place at Holy Cross Hospital in this northern suburb of Washington. He said that was Wallace's decision.

DOCTORS treating him have said they could not tell how much damage was done to the governor's spinal column until they took out the bullet.

"If the recovery process is good and normal, we fully anticipate the governor to be able to make the trip to Miami for the convention," Camp said.

Wallace underwent emergency surgery at the hospital a few hours after being shot while campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination at a shopping center in nearby Laurel, Md. He has been confined there ever since.

THE SURGICAL team that performed the first operation chose not to try to remove the bullet near the spinal column. Its plans to attempt that with a second operation were postponed when the governor came down with a stubborn abdominal infection.

Camp declined to identify the names of the doctors who will operate on Wallace Sunday or to say what time the surgery will take place. He said those details would be made known later.

Asked about prospects for Wallace to recover use of his legs, the press secretary said, "This is something we will have to wait and see." In any event, he added, the overall effect of the operation probably would not be seen for some time.

MANY persons who have visited him at the hospital have quoted Wallace as saying he plans to be at the Democratic convention, in a wheelchair if necessary. His wife, Corbetta, said recently that plans already were being made to accommodate the governor with special ramps at the convention hall.

Camp declined to identify reason why Wallace would not be able to go to Miami by July 10, if things go as expected, and suggested the governor might even return home to Alabama before the convention opens.

There had been considerable speculation that Wallace would be transferred to another hospital for the second operation, possibly the University of Alabama medical school in Birmingham.

ASKED about that, Camp said the governor made the decision to remain at Holy Cross after being told a transfer would require additional tests before the surgery and delay his ultimate recovery.

Camp said the surgical team would include some of the neurosurgeons who have been consulted on the case.

Many family members weekend for the operation, Camp said.

Calls Bircher story 'fraud' M'Govern hits war charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern said Friday that a published accusation against his war record is a fraud, and he made his personnel file available to newsmen.

McGovern told newsmen he sent for his records after "News in Review," a publication of the John Birch Society, claimed to have information McGovern was sent home from Europe with some missions still unflown because he "refused to fly."

McGovern, front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the accusations are "complete fabrication" and "a total hoax and a fraud." He said he never missed a mission.

The papers shown to newsmen contained no mention of missing missions, review boards or "cowardice."

THEY showed McGovern had flown 35 combat missions for a total of 230 hours during World War II.

An efficiency report, dated Dec. 31, 1944, gave this description of McGovern:

"This officer is quiet and unassuming. He has an excellent appearance and is very cooperative and is earnest in his work. He is an excellent officer and a good pilot."

It judged McGovern "excellent" in physical activity, endurance, stability under pressure, attention to duty, cooperation, intelligence and judgment.

The personnel file also included the citation for the Distinguished Flying Cross which was awarded May 7, 1945, the day the war ended.

The report also contained routine personnel forms.

IN BOSTON, Scott Stanley, editor of the "Review of the News," told a newsmen: "Our information came from a man from military intelligence with first hand information. He dealt with the case at the time. I notice that the senator is being very careful with his choice of words. I mean, he's talking about what's in a file and what isn't. It's easy to pull a document out of a file."

McGovern's office said the senator has authorized the Army to make available any and all pertinent information in Pentagon files.

At the Pentagon, an Army spokesman said McGovern's personnel records are available to him and that McGovern can release whatever information he desires.

The spokesman said the Army would not make public any personal information other than a statement of service.

THE STATEMENT, obtained by newsmen, shows dates of service, assignments, ranks held and decorations.

McGovern defends aid, military plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern said Friday his welfare plans do involve substantial new taxes for the rich and declared his proposed military budget is so powerful it leaves no room for "white flags of surrender."

McGovern, currently front runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, said his proposed cut of military spending to $54 billion by 1975 still will leave the nation so powerful it could destroy every major target in the Soviet Union and China simultaneously and 10 times over.

REFERRING to the recent while flag criticism made of his proposed military budget by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, McGovern told the congressional Joint Economic Committee:

"This is not a surrender budget. It is a very powerful budget. There's no white flag involved..."

"The truth is," McGovern said, "that we will have no new national priorities unless we make drastic changes in today's military spending trends."

The current military budget is $77.3 billion.

McGovern was invited to testify before the Senate-House panel as one of a series of Democratic presidential contenders who have offered varying proposals on taxes, defense, welfare, unemployment and the economy.

McGOVERN suggested several times in his three-hour session with congressmen that his proposal for a taxable $1,000 grant to all citizens as part of an income maintenance plan is subject to modification.

He said increased taxes on the rich and the corporations would be needed.

He contended those taxes would take "the biggest bite" from persons in the 50 per cent income bracket and above.

He denied that 210 billion is the correct price tag to apply to the total cost of his program and pledged that the team of economists working with him will have realistic price tags soon.

The McGovern plan would repeal the present $50 income tax exemption orations. It shows McGovern with the 741st Bomb Squadron, 145th Bomb Group, in the Mediterranean theater of operations from November, 1944, until June, 1945. It lists the decorations, including the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three Oakleaf clusters, and campaign medals. It shows McGovern was released from active duty on Aug. 16, 1945, with an honorable discharge and he was discharged "by reason of demobilization."

Talking with newsmen outside a congressional hearing room, McGovern said there are enough survivors from the crew of his own B-24 bomber and other officers and men who knew him to substantiate he was no coward.

He blamed the story on what he called a "right wing smear sheet."

The "Review of the News" article quoted "intelligence sources" as saying McGovern, then a lieutenant, abandoned his plane, refused to fight and forced a co-pilot to take over.

It said he was brought before a board of officers which "heard evidence of his cowardice and recommended a dishonorable discharge."

"The story continued: Gen. Ira Eaker is reported to have overruled the board choosing instead to add a letter to McGovern's permanent military record formally citing him for cowardice. That letter, if not stripped, is still a part of George McGovern's 201 file in the Pentagon..."

Brown says top solons trying to cripple him

BY DOUG WILLIS

SACRAMENTO — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. says leaders of the Legislature are trying to cripple his office to stop him from exposing big political campaign contributors.

"For the first time, the secretary of state has made politicians report where they get their campaign money, and the politicians don't like it," Brown said in an Associated Press interview Friday.

Brown, obviously angry, said that is why the Legislature cut two positions out of his department and took away the rent money for his new Beverly Hills office in the budget sent to Gov. Reagan Thursday.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR. "Politicians Don't Like It" —AP Wirephoto

BROWN'S accusations were denied by Assemblyman Willie Brown, chief of the Assembly's budget committee, who said the secretary of state was only angry because he was forced to comply with the same restrictions placed on other state departments.

"The budget cuts were made in the normal legislative process. They were not punitive," the assemblyman said.

"There can be no justification for his renting a $1,400 a month suite in Century City when there are vacancies in state buildings. We'll do the same thing to any other department we catch in the same position," Willie Brown added.

"The personnel? He asked for an editorial assistant—a press release assistant. That was not given to him. A computer operator was given to him. One of the deputies added to his staff last year was eliminated on the basis there was no defined function for that deputy," the lawmaker added.

HE ADDED that if the Legislature wanted to stop the secretary of state from enforcing the campaign disclosure law, "then we'd just change the law, but I don't know of a single bill introduced in either house to do that."

"Some of the leadership of the Legislature doesn't want the public to know where their campaign money comes from," the 34-year-old Secretary of State said.

"They are not attempting this device of budget cuts in secret conference committee in an attempt to cripple this operation. The people they cut out are the people who work on the campaign disclosure law. There is a very direct connection," said Brown, the son of the former governor.

"It's a signal. They're sending me a message to stop my efforts to require complete campaign reporting... to go slow," Brown tion eliminated, the assemblyman added.

THE secretary of state also challenged a broad hint in a provision of the budget act that his office is not efficient.

"I think I have the most efficient department in state government," he said in response to a question about the provision in the budget ordering a cost-efficiency investigation of his department.

Secretary Brown defended the Beverly Hills office on the basis that it is a convenient location for corporate attorneys to file for chartering new corporations and that no state office space was available at the time.

THE DISPUTE was widely reported as an intra-party struggle between Brown and Moretti — two both have been frequently mentioned as potential candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1974. But both sides deny that — at least in part.

"The 1974 campaign is so far away. I don't think that's the main issue," Secretary Brown said.

He added that running for the gubernatorial nomination in 1974, possibly against Moretti "is something that I have given serious consideration to, and it is a possibility, but it's just too far away."

added. "These guys don't want to report where they get their money. There's no doubt about it," he added.

ASKED which legislators he was accusing of trying to stop the enforcement of campaign contribution laws, Brown replied: "I would single out the Speaker and his lieutenants. They don't want this done."

That was a reference to Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who is Democratic chief of the lower house and to Assemblyman Brown, one of Moretti's closest political allies.

Moretti was not available for comments, but Assemblyman Brown said neither he nor Moretti knew which staff member handles campaign contribution statements when the budget cuts were made.

The secretary of state can make any shifts he wants in his office to use other personnel for that job if that really is a position.

BOMBING WOUNDS 9 GPs

tration has built up a force of nearly 100,000 men at bases in Thailand, Guam, Taiwan and aboard 7th Fleet ships. They provide the South Vietnamese with a massive air and naval umbrella.

Informants said the transfer of four Air Force and three Marine fighter-bomber squadrons from Da Nang to bases in Thailand at Nam Phong, Korat and Takli would cut U.S. strength in Vietnam while freeing troops of the 196th Infantry Brigade from security duty. The transfer, which will be completed by July 1, involves as many as 150 planes.

Some of these jets took part in the air strikes Thursday.

THE PHASEOUT of the headquarters company of the 196th Infantry Brigade, one of its three infantry battalions and its lone artillery battalion will cut U.S. strength by 1,030 troops. Sources said it is likely the other two infantry battalions also will be leaving within the next two weeks.

The only other U.S. ground combat unit remaining in South Vietnam is the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Air Cavalry Division, providing security for the Saigon-Long Binh-Bien Hoa military complex. It has three infantry battalions and one artillery battalion.

As it stands now there are a five U.S. infantry battalions and one artillery battalion — perhaps 3,000 front line fighters — remaining in Vietnam from a peak of 112 infantry battalions and 60 artillery battalions in 1968.

The 180th Brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Joseph C. McDonough, of Annapolis, Md., has been serving in Vietnam since August 1968.

IN OTHER war action, South Vietnamese bombers attacked two columns of North Vietnamese tanks in the Central Highlands and knocked out eight of them at points 10 and 20 miles northwest of Konlum, government spokesmen at Pleiku said.

Battlefield action on the three major fronts at An Loc, in the Central Highlands and along the northernmost defense line at My Chan above Hue was light and scattered.

Three South Vietnamese helicopters were reported shot down south of An Loc on Thursday, with a total of three crewmen wounded.

An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege since April 7.

Ecology bill over 1st hurdle

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A major compromise environmental protection bill — representing a first-ever meeting of the minds between the Reagan administration and a conservation-minded legislator — cleared its first committee test Friday.

Democratic Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg of Sacramento said it was "the first time" he'd ever taken part in hammering out such a sweeping environmental measure with the Reagan administration.

Z'berg said while he and the Sierra Club wish the compromise bill could have been tougher, "The opposition to environmental control is very strong. It is opposed by powerful special interest groups like the oil companies, utilities and subdividers."

UNDER THE Z'berg bill, a statewide environmental protection board and nine regional boards would be set up with comprehensive control over statewide pollution regulations.

Before the bill cleared the Assembly Natural Resources Committee on a 10-0 vote, several angry representatives of industry and agriculture complained that they were not given a chance to read the bill.

FCC OKs open-sky plan on satellite technology

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission voted 4 to 3 Friday for an open-sky policy which would permit all qualified applicants to provide communication satellite service for the transmission of television, telephone, telegraph and computer data signals.

The policy had been recommended by the White House in 1970 but three of President Nixon's appointees — Chairman Dean Burch and Commissioners Charlotte Reid and Richard Wiley — dissented.

The commission overruled the recommendation of its Common Carrier Bureau that would have required applicants with similar technology to combine their efforts. The spokesman said all eight pending applicants and any others interested in the field have until July 25 to apply.

He predicted a usable satellite system could be in operation 12 to 18 months from the date of authorization and the first approval should come this year.

The order by Commissioners Robert T. Bartley, Robert E. Lee and H. Rex Lee with Nicholas Johnson concurring ends a seven-year study of how the United States should proceed in the domestic communications satellite field.

A statement from the three dissenters was not expected until next week but a spokesman said they had disagreed on grounds the commission order was too restrictive against American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (ATT) and the Communications Satellite Corp. (COMSAT).

Eight separate proposals for satellites have been submitted to the FCC from Western Union Telegraph Co.; Hughes Aircraft and GTE Service Corp.; Western Telecommunications Inc.; RCA Global Communications Inc. and RCA Alaska Communications Inc.; COMSAT and ATT; COMSAT alone; MCI Lockheed Satellite Corp.; and Fairchild Industries Inc.

The FCC emphasized that its "multiple entry" policy does not mean unlimited or unrestricted open entry. It said applicants must demonstrate they are financially and technically qualified to provide domestic satellite service and prove that their service would be in the public interest.

$130-million hike asked by PT&T

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. Friday applied for more than $130 million in rate increases — one week after the State Supreme Court declared an earlier boost unlawful.

The application for an "interim" increase in rates was filed with the California Public Utilities Commission.

The PUC had awarded the phone company $143 million in rate boosts last year. It was these which the Supreme Court found illegal and ordered refunded.

PT&T said it planned to ask for at least an additional $87 million more in "interim" higher telephone charges as soon as it can complete its "supporting data."

The company's president, Jerome W. Hull, had warned Thursday that even greater requests for increases would be made in the future.

The telephone company said the immediate increases requested were a "first step towards" larger revenue boosts it hopes to get in California.

An increase of $198 million is necessary to allow PT&T make up the amount it must refund under the court order and still "earn a rate of return of 7.85 percent," the company said.

It said the Supreme Court ruling did not find that rate of return excessive but overturned an accounting method which allowed certain tax benefits to be excluded from the rate-setting formula.

The telephone company asked that the increased rates go into effect July 9, thus enabling it to begin the higher charges before having to make the refunds ordered by the court.

However, the cities and consumer groups which fought the court battle resulting in the refund order, are expected to oppose the new rate request.

PILOTS' STRIKE SET MONDAY

The influential Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram quoted Egyptian pilots as saying they did not "want to get involved in politics."

The United States reacted immediately to the strike threat by calling for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council to act on hijacking.

In Washington, the Air Transport Association, which represents U.S. air carriers, filed a request in U.S. District Court for a temporary restraining order against the strike. A hearing was scheduled for 11 a.m. today in the office of federal Judge George Harl.

Trans World Airlines announced it had obtained a temporary restraining order in New York Federal Court preventing its pilots from striking on both domestic and international flights.

"TWA will operate all flights on Monday and honor all reservations," a TWA spokesman said.

The union representing U.S. airline pilots, the Airline Pilots Association (ALPA), said in Washington it would join the walkout.

An ALPA spokesman added, however, that the walkout was not mandatory for the union's 31,000 pilots and 15,000 stewardesses. He said that the management of four airlines had indicated support for the shutdown but had asked not to be identified.

THE international walkout was announced by Capt. Ola Forsberg, president of IFAPA, after the United Nations failed to take action on the pilots' demands for immediate antihijacking measures. Forsberg met Thursday with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to discuss the hijacking situation.

Backing Forsberg in the strike call were leaders of the London-based International Transport Workers Federation and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, representing most of the world's airline ground personnel.

Walkouts by both unions could effectively tie up airports in the United States and a number of countries around the world.

MARTIN SEHAM, general counsel for the independent Allied Pilots Association (APA) indicated that his 3,500 American members would join the walkout.

But the United Air Lines pilots refusal to go along with the action was affirmed by their master executive council in Chicago. The public, it said, "was clearly aware" of the necessity for action against hijacking.

Forsberg said he expected the support of all IFAPA members, but conceded he had not had specific assurance from members of the IFAPA in the Soviet Union and other authoritarian countries.

Other reports indicated pilots in these countries would not walk out.

"This drastic action is the result of the lack of effective international measures to stem the tide of unlawful interference with civil aviation and constitutes a strong expression of deep concern and solidarity on the part of the world's aviation community," Forsberg said.

IMMEDIATELY after Forsberg's announcement, the United States requested Ambassador Lazar Mojsov of Yugoslavia, June president of the U.N. Security Council, to call a meeting of the 15-nation body "at the earliest possible date."

But Ambassador Christopher Phillips, deputy to U.S. Ambassador George Bush, who was attending a Cabinet meeting in Washington, left it to Mojsov to work out the timing of the meeting with other members of the council.

Mojsov summoned the council members to gather informally Monday to seek agreement on a statement against hijackings.

Mojsov said he acted in response to the U.S. request, supported by Italy and Britain.

The consultations will focus on a statement proposed by the United States condemning hijacking and calling on governments for action to stop it.

"Everybody agrees that there should be consultations," Mojsov said. "Everybody agrees that a text should be adopted."

The differences to be settled, he said, include what kind of text should be adopted, whether a formal meeting is necessary and, if it is, whether it should be with or without speeches and with or without participation of outsiders.

THE U.S. measure would call on all countries to enact more stringent security measures for aircraft and airports.

Such a resolution already had been introduced by the United States in Montreal, where a meeting of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), was expected to vote on it Friday.

One of the reasons for lack of formal action by the Security Council was reluctance by Eastern bloc countries to such a meeting, which might condemn the Arabs for the massacre at Israel's Lod Airport May 30.

That bloody slaughter of 24 persons by Japanese terrorists was part of a continuing string of violent air piracy incidents that moved the IFAPA to action.

The final straw that set the global walkout threat rolling occurred June 8 when a group of Czechoslovaks seized a small commercial plane and forced it to fly to West Germany. The pilot was shot to death and several passengers beaten.

In Montreal, Capt. Charles Simpon, the president of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association, pledged full support for the strike.

HE BLAMED "international lethargy" for failure to punish perpetrators of aviation violence which he said has killed scores of innocent victims and endangered thousands of lives.

Now accepts acupuncture

Doctor needled into becoming a believer

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A veteran anesthesiologist says he believes in acupuncture — but he's not certain yet how it works.

"I was skeptical until the procedure was tried on me," says Dr. Paul H. Lorhan, chief of the anesthesiology service at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance.

Lorhan got his introduction to the procedure — insertion of needles into the skin — while he was a visiting professor at Toho University in Japan recently.

"A friend of mine, Dr. E. Grey Diamond (famed cardiologist), had told me about a school of acupuncture in Tokyo, so I visited it," he relates. (Diamond has written in the Journal of the American Medical Association about witnessing acupuncture in mainland China.)

LORHAN SAID the Tokyo acupuncture teacher realized that he (Lorhan) was a skeptic and proposed that he submit to the procedure.

"I took the dare," Lorhan says. "He stuck a needle into my forearm, and my hand went to sleep."

"I could feel pressure — but not pain — in my hand when I stuck a needle into it. I could move my fingers. But when the teacher pulled out the acupuncture needle, my hand felt normal."

Lorhan says the acupuncture authority told him the procedure works by interrupting the autonomic nervous system pathways — that is, by preventing electrical charges from being transmitted along the nerves.

The Japanese are using acupuncture for the most part to kill pain and not for anesthetic purposes, Lorhan says. However, at the university at Kurume, Japan, researchers are starting to use acupuncture as an anesthetic measure by employing electrical current in conjunction with the needling procedure, he adds.

"I TOOK three lessons in acupuncture in Japan, and flunked all three," says Lorhan, laughing.

"I've been trying it on myself," he discloses. "I've stuck myself a dozen times or more."

But only once, he discloses, has he been "partially successful."

Lorhan says he's convinced acupuncture is not just a trick.

"It works in their hands (the Japanese). It worked on me. There's something there — but I don't know what it is."

A mixture of ages, life-styles

1,814 awarded degrees at LBCC

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Comfortably ancient in traditional academic trappings, yet very contemporary with youthful life-styles on display, it was Long Beach City College's 44th annual commencement Friday.

There were 1,814 degrees to be conferred by Board of Education President Elizabeth W. Wallace, and an overwhelming majority of the recipients were present in black cap and gowns to march before her under a broiling sun.

Youthful commencement speaker Tom Brokaw, Ch. 4's news anchorman, suggested that as the Class of '72 matures "over the next 60 or 70 years," it urgently will require a free press to help "make the right decisions."

The University of South Dakota political science graduate said that news media, whether print or electronic, must be "free to examine change, not just reflect it."

Noting that American newspapers were blasted by politicians "from George Washington to Spiro Agnew," Brokaw said "nothing in the past equals the intensity of the attack the press now finds itself undergoing."

"It comes to us from all sides, from the left, right and middle," he said, "and it will continue in the next term of the presidency, whoever occupies that great office."

"A free press is an irreplaceable source of power to a free people," Brokaw said. "I suggest to you that it is a fragile thing that must be guarded zealously. I am counting on all of you to help."

Film helps boy save girl's life

WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

When Harold Shonka viewed a fire department film that demonstrated mouth-to-mouth resuscitation at an assembly at Hamilton Junior High School, he paid close attention.

His attentiveness probably saved the life of a 10-year-old girl who was floating unconscious at the bottom of a North Long Beach swimming pool Friday.

"There were five other people standing around the pool not doing anything," said Shonka, 14, of 55 E. 69th Way.

But Shonka dove into the pool, at an apartment complex at 100 E. 69th Way, and pulled out Tina Thomas, of 16704 Muriel Ave., Compton.

He administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation—as he'd seen demonstrated in the film—and the girl had regained consciousness by the time firemen arrived.

ACTING Fire Capt. Jack Campbell said that the girl was crying and badly shaken, but appeared to be in good condition. She was taken to Dominguez Valley Hospital and later transferred to Harbor General Hospital for observation.

Shonka said he was walking down 69th Way with a friend when they heard cries for help from the Thomas girl's sister.

Capt. Campbell said the fire department regularly shows the film at schools and that any group whose members want to view the film can contact the fire department.

The film has apparently saved at least one life.

SEA EXPERT TO TALK AT ECOLOGY BANQUET

Robert B. Krueger, international authority on law of the sea and coastal zone management, will be the featured speaker at the first annual Southern California Water Quality Environmental Awards Dinner in Long Beach Tuesday.

The dinner, held aboard the Queen Mary, will honor or private industry and government for their efforts at improving the water quality of San Pedro Bay. The event is sponsored by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Krueger is chairman of the California Advisory Commission on Marine and Coastal Resources. He is a partner in the Los Angeles law firm of Nossaman.

Waters, Scott, Krueger and Riordan.

He is a member of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Law of the Sea, chairman of the offshore lands subcommittee of the American Bar Association's section on natural resources, and a member of the Sea Grant Review Panel of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

He'll talk on the history of environmental law and coastal legislation.

The Chamber of Commerce has evaluated the waste control and treatment programs of 15 public and private organizations and selected nine finalists as possible award recipients.

Harry J. Cornwall, president of the chamber's Ocean Industry Advisory Council, said the nine finalists had invested $100 million in environmental improvements.

Two street improvement contracts let by Long Beach

Two contracts for street improvement projects have been awarded by the Long Beach City Council to Moses Galluzzo of Santa Ana.

A $33,470 award was made for the improvement of Loyne Drive between Pacific Coast Highway and Palo Verde Avenue. The work primarily involves adjusting surface grades to improve drainage, paving and resurfacing.

The second award, in the amount of $10,170, calls for the widening of the north side of Spring Street between Walnut and Gardenia avenues by the construction of asphalt concrete pavement.

Baptist church blaze causes $5,000 damage

A pilot light may have ignited paint fumes Friday and caused an estimated $5,000 damage to Grace Baptist Church at 25th Street and Delta Avenue, firemen said.

Battalion Chief Robert Leslie said the fire caused damage to the second floor of the church and the first floor was damaged by water.

The church is being re-modeled and the fire broke out as a painter cleaned brushes and equipment on the second floor shortly after 2 p.m. Leslie said a pilot light in a nearby water heater may have touched off the blaze.

District right to close some schools upheld

By MARK CLUTTER
Staff Writer

The right of a unified school district to close unneeded schools has been upheld by the Legislature, it was announced Friday by Dr. Manuel Gallegos, superintendent of the Downey Unified School District, at a press conference.

The measure, an amendment to the Education Code was the result of furious opposition to the closing of Unsworth Elementary School in Downey.

IT DEFINES the authority of all unified district boards in California. At least two other unified districts in this area are immediately affected. Norwalk-La Mirada has encountered public wrath by closing schools. Long Beach, which has a declining child population, may face the problem soon.

The amendment states that districts unified before 1963, or with more than 15,000 students, or with a school less than five miles from another elementary school are not bound by code restrictions on closure.

The amendment was sponsored by Sen. Donald Grunsky and Assemblyman James Dent. Gov. Reagan signed it into law earlier this week.

The law is an urgency statute, meaning that it took effect immediately. After the closure of Un-sworth was announced, the North Downey Residents Committee, headed by Gerald Hassman, brought suit under the existing code to prevent the action. Mrs. Betty L. Kilpatrick, president of the board, acting with the backing of board and administration, went to Sacramento to plead for clarification of the law. The amendment was the result.

Hassman, who was present at the press conference, said afterwards, "We have just begun to fight." He said the legality of several board actions will be challenged.

The Unsworth area is a tight-knit community separated from the rest of Downey by the Santa Ana Freeway. A petition against the closure was signed by more than 600 residents. Hassman said the last protest meeting was attended by more than 200 persons.

The closing of two other schools — Casier Elementary and Woodruff Junior High — brought little protest.

Unsworth will continue as a functioning, full-time school, Dr. Gallegos said. There will be five classrooms of the trainable retarded from Downey and 10 under lease by Los Angeles County. There will be after-hours playground activity and the school will serve as a community center.

Mrs. Kilpatrick reported that a completely caged pedestrian overpass will be completed before September.

CHILDREN will be bused to nearby schools.

Other schools will be closed in Downey in the next two years. The city had its greatest expansion in the years after World War II. It attracted people of home-loving temperament who still live there. Their children are growing up and leaving the city. Young cities like Cerritos have the opposite problem of trying to build schools fast enough to house the expanding child population.

Woodruff Junior High will become Central High and an adult school. Casier is up for bids under a regulated procedure.

KNXT offers time for debates

Los Angeles television station KNXT (Channel 2) has invited candidates in three major county offices to take part in three separate debates, it was announced Friday.

William C. O'Donnell, vice president and general manager of KNXT, said invitations to debate have gone to District Attorney Joseph Busch Jr. and his opponent, Vincent Bugliosi; Supervisor Warren Dorn and his opponent, Baxter Ward, and Supervisor Marvin Braude and his opponent, James A. Hayes. O'Donnell proposed the three, hour-long debates be conducted live on Sunday evenings in September or October.

YOUTH CORPS FUNDS SOUGHT

An application for federal aid in a $7,500 program to provide free transportation to disadvantaged youth so they can participate in employment, educational, cultural and recreational activities has been authorized by the Long Beach City Council.

City Manager John R. Mansell said the funds will be used in Long Beach to provide transportation to and from work for Neighborhood Youth Corps enrollees working during the summer with the Recreation Department, and also to transport disadvantaged youth to recreation events. City participation was invited by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors, whose joint application to the federal government for summer transportation funds was approved under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964.

The grant requires that the city provide 25 percent of the total program cost, or $2,500, but permits this share to be either in cash or noncash services, Mansell said. The city's share can be met by supervisory services of the existing Recreation Department staff. Mansell said.

ABC school plans OKd; state to chip in one dollar

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The State Allocation Board has approved plans for the ABC Unified School District to build a new elementary school in Cerritos.

What's more, the board said, the state could help finance the $1.4-million project, to be named after Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves.

The school district will put up $1,402,196.67, and the state will chip in one dollar.

A spokesman for the allocation board said the state was not really being miserly.

"The district is obliged to use its bond funds, and at this stage of that particular project the district has enough funds to do the job.

"The state contributed one dollar just to keep its hand in, so that later, if the district runs out of money and looks to us for assistance, we can give it without going through a laborious process."

"It's just a bookkeeping device."

The school, designed to accommodate 825 pupils in 23 classrooms, will be located at 166th and Marquart Avenue in Cerritos.

L.B. therapy pool for disabled to open

The California Communities Pool for the Handicapped will open its doors at 10:30 a.m. today to provide a summer of therapy for persons of all ages suffering from muscular dystrophy, cystic fibrosis, cerebral palsy and birth defects. Admission to the pool and use of all therapeutic devices is free.

The pool, located at 6801 Long Beach Blvd., has been used to train numerous youngsters and adults to swim, providing many of them with the only chance they have to leave their beds and wheelchairs for recreation and therapy.

Measuring 40 feet by 100 feet, the pool is 4 feet deep and heated to 90 degrees. Water therapy for the handicapped is provided by Mrs. Evelyn Dupont and a staff of unpaid volunteers. Many of these volunteers, themselves stricken with crippling diseases, have returned to the pool to offer their time and experience in helping other handicapped persons. Approximately 75-100 persons are expected to use the facility each week throughout the summer.

The pool will be open daily except Sunday from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Additional information is available at 537-2224.

ARNOLD O. BECKMAN

Scientist honored at graduation

Arnold O. Beckman, a scientist, educator and industrialist, was named outstanding citizen of the year at commencement ceremonies at Orange Coast College Friday.

Beckman, of Corona Del Mar, founder of Beckman Instruments Co., was presented the award during the graduation program for 1,575 students at the Costa Mesa college.

THE AWARD was presented in behalf of the board of trustees of the Coast Community College District.

Beckman was honored for scientific efforts to control environmental pollution, and for developing new scientific instruments which have advanced man's knowledge in science, medicine, industry, pollution control, education, agriculture and space exploration.

New Norwalk sheriff station

By MARK CLUTTER
Staff Writer

Norwalk sheriff's deputies will start operating out of a brand new station Monday.

The new, single-story, 32,500-square-foot station at 12335 Leffingwell Rd., will replace the station at 11801 Firestone Blvd. and will be the fifth facility in the city used by sheriff's personnel since 1924.

IN 1924, the sheriff personnel served the Norwalk area out of a rented house with six deputies. In 1926, the station moved to San Antonio Drive and Front Street, where it shared facilities with fire personnel. A third move was to facilities on Firestone Boulevard near Sprout Street.

In October 1948, plans were revealed for the most modern station of its time and on September 19, 1949, more than 100 sheriff's personnel moved into the station at 11801 Firestone Blvd., which was the home of the local law enforcement agency for 22 years.

IN THAT 22 years, the area served by the Norwalk Sheriff Station was reduced as the city of Downey formed its own police department and the Lakewood sheriff's station was built, taking over enforcement duties in a 150-square mile area served by the Norwalk station. In that time, too, a new service building and a 75 foot radio mast was constructed at the station on Firestone Boulevard.

One of the biggest events in the 22 year history of the station occurred in February, 1958, when two airplanes collided over the station and parts of the aircraft destroyed cars parked in the lot at the station and caused considerable damage to the buildings.

The new station, which is located in the Norwalk civic center area, will accommodate about 250 sheriff's Department personnel under the command of Capt. Fred Gustin and will eventually contain the most modern police communications equipment available.

The Norwalk Sheriff's Station handles law enforcement for the cities of Norwalk, La Brea, Santa Fe Springs, Pico Rivera and unincorporated areas of south Whittier. The telephone number will remain 863-8711 for service calls.

Day camp set for children of LBSU students

A six-week summer day camp will be offered by Long Beach State University to the preteen children of the campus' students, faculty and staff, officials have announced.

To be limited to 50 children, with the youngsters of students taking priority over those of staff and professors, the camp will open Monday. Cost of the day camp, scheduled on campus daily from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., is $75 per child, according to campus spokesmen.

Offices of the program, which will include arts, crafts, sports and other outdoor activities, are located in the campus Soroptimist House on State College Drive, they added.

year as dean of students at the University of Houston, Tex. — a post he accepted while serving as an associate dean at Fullerton — officials said.

The selection of Nudd from among 80 candidates was announced by Fullerton President L. Donald Shields, who termed the educator "an articulate leader noted for reason, patience and responsiveness."

NUDD served during the summer of 1969 as the acting dean of students at the Fullerton campus, other university spokesmen recalled. From 1966 to 1970, Nudd's primary duties were as director of student activities at Fullerton, they said.

He previously was, head counselor of a freshman residence hall at the University of Oregon, from 1956-58, and served as housing supervisor and associate dean of students at UCLA between 1958 and 1966.

According to Shields' announcement, the post which Nudd assumes will be "reclassified" to vice president for student affairs during the coming academic year.

Station burglary

Burglars broke through the front window of the Texaco Service Station at 701 W. Willow St. and took $150 in coins, $32 worth of trading stamps and a camera valued at $125, Long Beach police said Friday.

Window forced, bicycles stolen

Burglars forced open a bathroom window at the home of Neal J. Rusler, 5711 E. Second St., and took two 10-speed bicycles valued at $275, Long Beach police said Friday.

GARDENING

PINK CLOVER — Polygonum Capitatum, Fast-Growing Groundcover

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Pink clover, with masses of small, pink flowers all summer long and bronze-green leaves is one of the fastest growing groundcovers. It reaches about five inches high quickly. One year, ours froze back to the ground. Some grew again from the undamaged roots late the following spring.

Sorry to say, it is slowly disappearing from the horticultural trade. Lippia repens is an outstandingly tough, low-growing groundcover that mats well in almost any type of soil. It tolerates not only the mild weather but also conditions in desert areas. It grows in varying sun and heat in the summer. Lippia the winter. It is listed to stand cold to five degrees below zero. The foliage is gray-green and has small line-colored blossoms during the summer. Lippia likes a top-dressing of fine mulch material in the spring and periodic waterings.

WE KNOW what a mule is: we've heard of mule cabbage or lamb, mule chub, mule armadillo, a mule chair, plus the word muletwist—skinner, rabbit, pulley, frame, foot, fat, and deer, but it wasn't till recently we heard about mule marigolds.

Burpee seed people say the mule marigolds are triploid hybrids, crosses between the big American (originally called African) marigolds, and the little French marigolds.

The French marigolds have twice as many chromosomes as the American type, hence they can't mate normally. Therefore, the resulting triploid chromosomes are out of balance. (Chromosomes are small bodies within the plant cells that determine that the offspring will be a reasonable facsimile of the parent.) That makes them mules. Like the mule animals they cannot reproduce themselves, but like all living things they try to do so. They keep trying. They continue blooming, and blooming, and blooming, but never set seeds. That marvelous, powerful, inner urge of trying to produce seeds which they can't, no doubt, is the reason why they continue to send forth new crops of bright yellow, rich gold, and deep orange, full flowers two inches around on foot-high plants.

To get more seeds of these triploids, the seed grower has to cross the original American and French marigolds every year, just the same as a jackass is crossed with a mare to get a mule. If your nurseryman has sold out on them, and none are on hand, sow the seeds. They'll grow and come into bloom in about six weeks, assuming they get normal watering and care.

ONE OF our readers has a deciduous fruit tree problem important enough to answer in this column.

Question — Can you help me with my apricot tree, a Red Sweet, 8 years old, in lawn area? This year flower and leaf buds didn't develop; only 5 or 6 flowers appeared on the entire tree. They dried up before spring. The only new growth is on the ends of branches. A few small branches have no growth at all, yet the twigs are green. We didn't spray it this year. We kept it well-trimmed each year. It is planted in adobe soil. It has borne good fruit every year. Any suggestions would be more than appreciated.

Answer — A deciduous fruit tree growing in the lawn eventually is bound to suffer from superficial, constant surface dampness which smothers air from the soil. Due to such a condition it is probable that alkali tends to build up in that area. That old tree needs to be deeply watered four feet down and likewise out to a foot or more beyond the drip-line. The fruit tree grows much better in a "soil area" than in a lawn, because the water can be controlled. The gardener waters the tree as the soil dries. I'm surprised you didn't tell me gum oozes out through the bark of the tree. "The green twigs without leaves" may be an indication the tree is too deep in the ground. Another possible problem may be a layer of hardpan several feet below the lawn surface. (You never mentioned whether the tree is top-dressed in fall season with a layer of manure or a spread mulch material.

CLUB NOTES

The Long Beach Parent Chapter of the American Begonia Society will meet Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Great Western Savings and Loan building, 6300 E. Spring St.

Visitors are welcome.

Nurseryman Don Fitch and horticulturist John Provine, both of the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia, will offer a lecture-demonstration for the home gardener on the techniques of plant propagation. Their talk is scheduled at 2 p.m. in the Demonstration Home Gardens at the Arboretum and Botanic Gardens, 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia.

Admission is free and visitors are welcome.

The Southern California Herb Society will offer a program on arrangement of flowers, with emphasis on herbs, Thursday at the lecture hall at the Los Angeles County Arboretum. For further information, please contact the society at 5142 Acacia, San Gabriel 91776; telephone: Atlantic 6-9882.

One of the world's largest and most lavish flower and garden shows will be held at the Southern California Exposition from June 27 to July 9.

Plans for the four-acre covered show include separate individual exhibits with hedges and plant materials rather than fences.

The Lompoc Valley Flower Festival starts today with the queen's talent show and coronation ball. Events are scheduled for June 20 and the 23rd through the 25th. The Parade of Flowers will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday June 23. Flower field tours are scheduled during that weekend. For information contact the Lompoc Chamber of Commerce, 119 East Cypress, Lompoc, Calif. 93436 or telephone (805) RE 6-4567.

Students from six Los Angeles area high school summer sessions will be digging up backyard plots very soon as they prepare to compete in the Los Angeles International Fern Society's ninth annual fern and exotic plant open show July 29 and 30 at the Fannie Morrison Horticultural Center in Pasadena's Brookside Park.

The interior of the Horticultural Center's four buildings, built around a core patio, will be turned into a tropical paradise showing off the prize specimens of The Bromeliad Society, The American Begonia Society and The National Fuchsia Society in addition to scores of individual and commercial displays.

Show hours are 1 to 10 p.m. on opening day, July 29 and 10 to 8 p.m. on July 30.

Court plea set in pet shelter fire

A Long Beach veterinarian was ordered Friday to appear at Superior Court next Friday to enter a plea on charges that he set a fire which killed 25 animals at a San Pedro pet hospital.

Donald I. Ogden, 46, owner and operator of an animal hospital at 5856 E. Spring St., is accused of the arson last Easter at an animal hospital at 1010 N. Gaffey St.

He is alleged to have held a second trust deed on the San Pedro facility, which had been operated by veterinarian David Dickson.

The blaze caused an estimated $125,000 damage to the structure and killed 25 dogs and cats. Ogden is free on $5,000 bail.

There's an easier way

There's an easier way to control insects. But you don't need a great variety of insecticides to control 'em. In fact, all you need is one...Spectracide®.

Spectracide (with Diazinon®) controls virtually every insect known to gardens. Mites, ants, chinch bugs, aphids, leaf miners are just a few examples.

Protect your lawn, shrubs, flowers, fruits and vegetables with Spectracide. Available in liquid concentrate, granular or pressurized spray, at your nursery or garden supply center.

Aid 'no-shows' face sanctions

OXNARD (UPI) — Welfare officials began sending "letters of sanction" Friday to 23 aid recipients who failed to appear for possible training or non-paying jobs in Gov. Reagan's "work or else" program.

The 23, all classified as able-bodied men with children, were among 40 recipients notified to appear for interviews Thursday at Ventura County welfare offices in the first day of the program.

Called the Community Work Experience Program, it can be used to require employable welfare recipients to spend up to 80 hours a month at non-paying work or job training.

A State Welfare Department spokesman said the "letters of sanction" instruct the 23 men to explain why they failed to appear. Unless their reasons are valid, he said, steps will begin to cut or eliminate their welfare payments.

OF THE 17 who did report the first day, two were assigned to non-paying jobs, one to a regular job and five to regular job interviews. The others continued to be processed or found work on their own. Another 31 men were scheduled for interviews Friday.

Welfare-rights groups have filed legal action in an attempt to stop the program, calling it "slave labor," but officials believe the experiment can provide an initiative to find regular employment.

"It is in no way punitive," said Wilbur D. Rudy, state welfare operations manager in the county. "The program is rewarding. It gives the recipient an opportunity to do some work and associate with the working world. And no one is placed in a position where the work is degrading."

Of the two given jobs, one, a young man, was assigned to a trash-collection crew. The other, a former $400-a-week aerospace technical writer, was given a parttime office job with a schedule allowing him time to develop his own horseshoeing business. The jobs are without pay.

STATE and local officials were perplexed at the scant response as the program kicked off.

A total of 483 men with children were notified to report for interviews in the next few weeks. Unemployed mothers with children over 6 years of age will be summoned next for an estimated county total of about 1,000.

Plans call for the program, which is partially financed by federal funds, to be expanded later into 34 other counties.

Hitch sees easing of UC fund austerity

Associated Press

Despite a probable lower operating budget than last year, University of California President Charles Hitch said Friday he hopes the university's austerity years have "bottomed out."

The 1972-73 budget approved by the Legislature Thursday, Hitch said, gives the university a little less operating revenue than this year but points the way toward improvement of faculty salaries.

"WE ARE going to be more competitive in salaries" which is a tangible indication the era of UC budget deficiencies "have bottomed out," Hitch said.

Regent William French Smith echoed Hitch's view of the university's money problems. "We are much better off than we have been," French said at the conclusion of the regents' two-day meeting at the UCLA extension center.

During a fast-paced business session, the regents approved in principle the nomination of Dean A. Watkins as regents chairman for the year starting July 1. He succeeds Smith who has been head of the university's policy-making board since last July.

The regents also heard a report by Hitch on the status of the university's attempt to improve the quality of undergraduate education on nine campuses.

Hitch noted that the university's gains in upper level and graduate instruction and research after World War II were accomplished "at some cost to undergraduate instruction."

AS A result, he said, the university began a state-wide effort in the mid-1960s to regain a balance between graduate and undergraduate education.

"But change occurs very slowly in large and complex institutions and it is unrealistic to expect quick results," Hitch said.

Whatever progress has been made to improve and redefine undergraduate teaching, he said, "we believe undergraduate instruction at the university is good. We know it can be better and we are taking steps to make it better."

In other business, he regents:

- Approved the use of student education fees to finance a $2.8 million worth of fire-protection projects at Santa Cruz, Berkeley, Davis, San Diego and San Francisco.
- Authorized the appropriation of $80,000 from the University Opportunity Fund to oversee a program of minority-group hiring for university construction projects.
- Approved an increase from $2 to $6 quarterly in the Associated Students fee at UC San Francisco. Proceeds from the increase would go to support student programs on the campus.
- Authorized installation of a materials delivery system in the Clinics Expansion building at UC San Francisco. The system would be used to transport medical records, X-ray films and laboratory specimens and is expected to cost about $350,000.

2 freeway signs OKd... at large cost

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Those freeway signs indicating the direction of colleges and other significant landmarks normally cost about $80 each.

Soon, the State Department of Public Works is going to install two signs on the Colorado Freeway and two on the Glendale Freeway both in Los Angeles, indicating the nearby presence of Occidental College.

But these signs, instead of costing 200, will cost more than $700.

ASSEMBLYMAN John T. Knox, D-Richmond, an Occidental alumnus and a member of the college's board of trustees, told the Assembly Friday that the Public Works Department had turned down the school's request for freeway signs.

He asked for, and received, approval of a resolution directing the department to install the signs.

A legislative aide estimated that the cost of processing a resolution through the Senate and Assembly is approximately $500.

Forecast for Sunday

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 21): Impatience, tension are probable. Be tolerant, allowing each minute as you get to it, even though you are waiting for something incomplete.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Even well-venerated parents pose problems. Expect some serious interruptions, but stay calm and unaffected in your social activities.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You tend to be more direct and forceful than certain people find comfortable. Leave this Sunday activities to others when you can.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): As life grows less, and you see what you can do to expand and fulfill your own potentials and expectations in a quiet social atmosphere.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give the world and yourself a break today; make a personal vacation of it, once you've done what you promised or feel you must do.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Preoccupation with mental hobbies and pursuits fills you Sunday. Find time for serious study. Let others follow their own paths.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Personal plans are under the strange quiver of a curious mental mayhem to be taken over for another time — or changed a little.

'Biological' mother loses Contested children go to foster parents

OAKLAND (UPI) — A Superior Court gave custody of three children, ages 11, 9 and 8, to their foster parents Friday, rejecting the claim of their "biological" mother.

It was the first such decision under California's 1970 Family Act which permits custody to be denied to a natural parent if it is in the child's "best interests."

Judge William J. McGuinness made the ruling after weighing previous testimony by the children — Scott, Richard and Wendy — McKenize.

The children all said they considered their foster family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Darnell, of nearby Concord, their "real parents" after living with them six years. The youngsters had been placed with the Darnells by the Contra Costa County Social Welfare Services when their parents, Robert and Linda McKenize were divorced and neither was able to care for the children.

Linda McKenize married Paul Rosenberg last October, and after gaining a steady job as a secretary, forcibly removed her children from the Darnell home.

During the court hearings, Mrs. Darnell testified that Mrs. Rosenberg did not visit the children for nine months, and only saw them a dozen times a year for the past five years.

The Darnells said they were devoted to the children, who participated fully in family camping and fishing trips, parties and regular church activities with their other two children.

"They filed to get the youngsters back under the new Family Act, which said a court may award custody to a non-parent in whose home the child has found a 'wholesome and stable environment,'" said McGuinness.

Psychologists, psychiatrists, teachers and social workers testified for the Darnells, and the children gave their preferences.

Scott, 11, said "I want to go home to my parents, the Darnells."

Richard, 9, said he didn't like "Paul and Linda" because "the Darnells are my parents."

Wendy, 8, said she didn't like living in "Paul and Linda's house."

The judge said in a three-page decision that "a dispassionate appraisal of the factors relating to 'best interests' finds the entire record weighed heavily, if not exclusively, in favor of the foster parents."

"The claim of the natural parents, on the other hand, is based chiefly on biological motherhood and the record suggests her belated claim for custody might have been motivated, in part, upon factors other than a total and exclusive concern for the children."

He said that "reasonable visitation" rights would be given to Mrs. Rosenberg and ordered the children to be put immediately in the custody of the Darnells.

Court blocks closure of Mendocino Hospital

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Acting on a motion filed by the California State Employees Association, the 3rd District Court of Appeal continued a temporary restraining order Friday blocking closure of Mendocino State Hospital.

CSEA spokesman Curt Taylor said the restraining order would remain in effect for two months while the appeal court reviews the transcript of the original Sacramento County Superior Court case.

The State Department of Mental Hygiene plans to shut down the hospital by Sept. 1 as part of a program of transferring patients into local mental health programs. CSEA contends the patients are being deprived of needed care by transfer into what it has called inadequate local programs.

Since 1965, the patient population in state mental hospitals has declined from 37,000 to 8,200.

The appeals court also accepted a CSEA motion for a hearing to determine if officials of the hospital should be cited for contempt of court. CSEA contends officials transferred 10 patients out of the hospital after the temporary restraining order was issued.

Portable computers for home use seen

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A portable computer may sit beside the sofa or television in the average American home someday, an industry expert said Friday.

"I don't think it will happen overnight, but in the future its impact will be more subtle and more 'unofficial,'" Dr. Norman Rasmussen said.

The housewife's own computer, he said in an interview, might help her shop by letting her point to pictures of supermarket products displayed on its screen and then automatically send the groceries home and bill them to the household bank account.

It might forecast a family's income for five years, figure out future taxes and how much should be set aside for the children's education and tell how much insurance is needed.

Or it might make it possible for creative persons to confer without having to leave their homes.

Rasmussen, who is manager of five computer science centers for International Business Machines Corp., was in San Diego for the summer simulation conference for Aeronautics and Astronautics.

Judge dismisses assault charges against Indians

REDDING (UPI) — A Superior Court judge Friday dismissed assault charges against four Pit River Indians arrested in October 1970 following a bloody confrontation between Indians and law officers.

Visiting Judge Robert Carter took the action at the request of Shasta County Dist. Atty. Robert Baker, who said the defendants' right to a fair trial could not be fulfilled because too much time has passed since their arrests.

Ecumenical Presb. on COCU pullout

'Protestant unity must come from bottom up'

By LES RODNEY

How does an ecumenical-minded Presbyterian minister feel about his denomination pulling out of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU), which was attempting to unite nine Protestant groups into a 25-million-member church? Is the dream of Protestant unity dead? What went wrong? How does the average churchgoer really feel about it all?

Rev. James R. Deemer, pastor since 1965 at Long Beach First United Presbyterian Church — he came here from 15 years of mission work in Africa — supplied some candid answers in a chat this week. Deemer has twice been president of the Ministerial Association, has headed up united relief work for victims of catastrophes for Church World Service, is witness chairman for the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, was Long Beach-Lakewood chairman for the Billy Graham Anaheim Crusade Committee, and is area leader for Key '73, a big upcoming Christian evangelistic effort.

Here's how our conversation went, give or take a few phrases.

On the record, you're a pretty ecumenical minister. Is that the way you think of yourself?

"I'm ecumenical. I'm generally in favor of any effort to unite Christians. Any effort to unify our mission."

Were you specifically in favor of the COCU plan?

"Yes, I was sympathetic to COCU. But one of the criticisms is that it became obsolete. It took so long, that while it deliberated, factors and feelings on which it was originally based changed."

What, mainly, became the problem?

"Probably any successful ecumenical movement, if there is to be such a thing, will have to start with the local churches, which will then force them to coordinate at the top, rather than the other way around. There's a natural human suspicion, rightly or wrongly, against forcing something from the top."

REV. DEEMER
Share of the Blame

This includes people who ordinarily would be sympathetic with the aims."

But wouldn't a COCU official insist that only from the bottom is exactly what THEY most want? Wouldn't they fervently agree that top structure alone won't cut it, that local unity is really what they were after, not top structural unity?

"Well, yes. We have to take our share of the blame. They said study the plan, study the plan. We didn't. The plan does have an emphasis on local initiative. But it is not factual to say, if anyone is now saying that, that COCU did not intend formal structural unity at the top. COCU is definitely an organizational merger plan."

What's the reaction of the ordinary Presbyterian in the pew to the decision to pull out? Will there be any push to reverse the decision?

"The ordinary church member shrugs and says so what, what's the big problem. If I want to go to a Methodist church, I'll go to a Methodist church, if I want to go to a Lutheran church, I'll go to a Lutheran church, we're all Christians."

But shifting denominations is not actually all that simple, they are really not all that alike.

"Of course not. We've been seeing, for instance, the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, and the Southern Baptist, their leadership trying to enforce strict denominational separation, their own conservative distinctives."

Distinctives is a word often used in a positive sense, not so much a narrow separation as a rich and valuable tradition and insights. Would you agree, as an ecumenist?

"Certainly. It is a good word, but one denomination can learn from the distinctives of another. Ecumenism is not watering down, it is enriching. We all need to learn from one another."

For instance?

"Well, we Presbyterians need to learn more from the Methodists about the free will of man. They can learn from us more of lay involvement, our emphasis on the sovereignty of God, and so on."

In this sense, would you say that even if COCU never comes off, there has been positive value just in the process of sitting down together and talking these things over?

"Very much so. And more than that. If you just take a fact such as that there has been some means of putting down in black and white the questions relating to baptism. These become reconciling documents."

With the Presbyterian pullout, will there be a swing away from ecumenism, a new trend?

"I don't think so. Even the opponents of COCU insisted they were not anti-ecumenical. Some of its opponents really are anti-ecumenical, however. There was a determined fight against COCU in the United Presbyterian Church by conservative forces. I'm not complaining about that, it was their right and they fought it in proper fashion. But generally no, I don't look for any swing toward complete apathy on ecumenism."

tion to a new united church just a reluctance on the part of people to move from the familiar to the unknown?

"No question, that's true in every sphere of life."

Would you, as a secure Presbyterian pastor, have had such fears?

"No, I didn't fear the COCU plan, as I said I was convinced it had adequate provisions for local autonomy."

Will you and I live to see the end of denominationalism?

"As far as the United States is concerned, no. In Africa it's happening. I saw it. You have to remember that this country began with racially migrating groups bringing in their own church forms, the whole structure of Protestantism here has been based on that, it makes it harder."

That was the historical case, but with the fading of old country languages, with intermarriages, TV culture and all, isn't that kind of separation dying away?

"Oh yes, it is becoming less important. Some of our own members now, when they move, will say the denomination is not the main thing in looking for a new church home. Now getting back to COCU, that's just the point. To develop successfully in this country, it will have to be when denomination lines become so blurred in churchgoers' minds that it will seem meaningless and they will no longer tolerate it. But when it's forced from the top, there's reluctance, even if they theoretically agree with unity."

Now what about the contention by conservative evangelists that COCU's whole idea is basically anti-scriptural, that the biblical injunction

Presbyterian interviewed

"all may be one" means only individual spiritual unity in Christ, not formal church unity?

"I go back to what Jesus said to Peter, 'Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it.' I take that to be singular, not plural. His church, just one."

Speaking of the United Presbyterian General Assembly, I note that they also turned down official participation in the Key '73 evangelistic drive, though leaving the option open for local presbyteries and churches to take part. How do you, as Key '73 chairman here, feel about that?

"Well, I'm a little dissatisfied there. They could have given it more support. It's interesting, the reasons they gave are much the same reasons that we criticize the conservative churches for, being too conservative. Our General Assembly was expressing the same kind of fears, of losing our identity, of compromising our own principles and all that kind of thing."

Finally, back to that old wounded horse COCU, do you think some of the groundswell that developed against it, in a denunciation which originally helped launch it, can be attributed to new widespread attitudes in the country distrustful of centralized authority? Plus fear of just another huge arbitrary bureaucracy such as many think the Roman Catholic Church was at the time of the reformation?

"Some of the youth emphasis against the 'establishment' has probably rubbed off. As for the fear of another big authoritarian structure. The development of the church in the Middle Ages came when it was surrounded by dictators, kings and the kind of culture that allowed the involvement of church patterns of the same kind. The culture today makes it almost impossible to again have that kind of structure, totally arbitrary and authoritarian. I have no fear of government per se, just of government that is not responsive. And size is not an indication of goodness or badness. We all know small organizations that are narrow and efficient, and on the other hand small groups or a small church that are open."

Places his guns on church altar

WASHINGTON, D.C. (United Methodist Press) — Two guns were placed on the altar of a church here May 28 in an "ethical response" to violence and in the hope of encouraging surrender of more guns.

During the "time of concern" at Dumbarton United Methodist Church, Robert Koehntzky and his family placed a .38 revolver and a .22 target pistol on the altar. He said the former was bought some five years ago after his Mississippi home was bombed, but that his increasing concern over having the weapon was brought to a head by the nearby shooting recently of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. He added that having the guns seemed inconsistent with opposition to "institutionalized violence in Vietnam."

Vacation Bible Schools told

Two area churches have announced Vacation Bible Schools starting Monday, to which all community children are invited.

At Bixby Knolls Christian Church, 1240 E. Carson St., school through June 30 will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m., ages pre-school through junior high.

Uptown Church of Christ, 3707 Atlantic Ave., offers a one-week school, 9 to 11:30 a.m. for all children from nursery through high school age.

BILLY HITS THE STREETS

Evangelist Billy Graham hits the streets of downtown Dallas during the week's "Explo '72" attended by 100,000. It was termed "a spiritual explosion" by the sponsoring campus Crusade for Christ. Graham is being asked to autograph the young man's Bible.

Church Council hits Tel-Aviv massacre

Denouncing terrorist acts against people wherever they occur, and whatever the reasons given, the General Board of the National Council of Churches this week issued the following condemnation of the slaughter at the Tel Aviv airport in Israel.

The slaughter at Tel-Aviv International Airport of 26 innocent travelers and the wounding of some 80 others by assassins has shocked the world community. The General Board of the National Council of Churches joins with other people of goodwill in every land in denouncing this act of terrorism. We insist that it cannot be tolerated either as a technique for discouraging travel by pilgrims and other tourists to a Holy Land sacred to three world religions or as an appropriate strategy in the struggle to find a solution to the problems of the Middle East.

Though there is nothing we can do to reclaim lost lives, two responses we think are fitting: first, we encourage continued travel to the Holy Land. We see this as a direct way for Christians to witness with courage for peace there, to call for continued access to the Holy Places, and to stand against the isolation of Israel. We hope many will consider making such a trip. Second, we urge all Christians to join in prayers for the victims' families and for Israel and her people in this time of sorrow for us all.

As Christians we can not justify any terrorist attacks upon people regardless of the provocation, whether these acts occur in Vietnam, Ireland, the Middle East, the United States or elsewhere.

The General Board of the National Council of Churches, alarmed by the growing number of such acts, calls upon its member churches and persons of all religious faiths to reaffirm the sanctity of human life.

The General Board also calls upon the United Nations, national governments and the air travel industry to devise and maintain more effective security measures so that there may be freedom of travel without undue jeopardy.

Police never saw better behavior

Explo '72 hailed in Dallas as a 'Religious Woodstock'

DALLAS — Nearly 100,000 delegates to EX-PLO '72 in the Cotton Bowl heard the man who created the "Religious Woodstock" say that movements like this could bring world peace.

"Changed people in sufficient numbers make a changed world," said Bill Bright, president of Campus Crusade for Christ.

The delegates, who sat on the canvas which covered the plastic grass of the infield as well as most of the seats in the massive arena, also heard Billy Graham say the purpose of the meeting was to "evangelize the whole world in our generation."

"EXPLO will tell the whole world that Christian youths are now on the march and will keep marching until millions have been brought into the Kingdom of God on every continent," Graham said.

The 72,000 official delegates, including hundreds of college-age youth from the Long Beach area, attended evangelism training sessions Friday in preparation for a final massive Jesus music festival all day today.

Delegates were expected to attend 15 hours of lectures and seminars during the week on evangelistic methods, and then use their training to "practice" on the citizenry of Dallas what they have learned about spreading the Word.

Seminars have taken on such diverse subjects as

"Love, Sex and Dating," "How To Utilize Your School Newspaper," "How to Work with High School Students — Strategy and Overview," and "Self-acceptance."

Problems have been numerous but mostly minor, except for a 14-year-old youth who drowned earlier in the week.

"The sheer size of the conference means there will be instances of personal inconvenience. Some delegates had to wait 13 hours to get their hotel room keys. There have been reports of people waiting over an hour to make a phone call, and then there is the problem of finding baths for those who are camping out," an EXPLO official said.

An example of EXPLO's size can be found in the food menu which lists 30,000 sandwiches, 145,000 boxes of cereal and 162,000 pieces of fruit. Also listed are 61,000 pieces of chicken, 5,100 gallons of tea, 120 tons of ice and almost 30,000 candy bars.

Ex-chaplain asks war condemnation

MONTREAT, N.C. (M) — Dr. Albert Curry Winn, president of the Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, has opened a drive for adoption by the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church of a resolution condemning the Indochina war.

Dr. Winn, a former Navy chaplain, told the 12th annual meeting of the assembly that the war is a product of the American military-industrial complex, and is not winding down.

He said the church has not placed a high priority on peace. The speech drew both applause and protest.

nanced primarily by registration fees — $20 before a March deadline and $25 after the deadline. These fees brought in an estimated $7.5 million to pay expenses estimated at $2.24 million.

The difference will have to come with the Lord's help, said Paul Eshleman, director of EXPLO.

Major expenses were $497,000 for conference operations, $285,000 for materials, $346,000 for general office expenses and $300,000 for scholarships.

EXPLO, billed as a Christian Woodstock, brought such comments from Dallas police officials as: "I've never seen a better behaved bunch."

The eight-hour "Jesus Music Festival," featuring such stars as Johnny Cash and Kris Kristofferson, is scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. today and will be the grand finale of the conference.

Confident living Modern tensions can be defeated

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Why are many people so tense and uptight? Wonder drugs, miracle surgeries, better living conditions and modern conveniences help make life safer, longer and healthier. Yet we are a tense, uptight generation. We worry about war, the state of the economy—recession, depression, unemployment. We read about holdups, muggings, stab-bings and riots. And on a personal level there is al-ways the mortgage, food prices, the job, the chil-dren, and "what could that little pain in my chest be?" A prominent psychia-trist declares that "anxiety is the great modern plague."

The more we have, the more we worry about los-ing it. We fear our gains will somehow be taken away from us. Could be this attitude has something to do with making people tense. Instead of doing the best they can, one day at a time, with a feeling that things will come out right, people worry about the fu-ture and the past. And nothing can be sillier than worrying about the past. The reason it's called the past is because it has passed. And people fear things that are not likely to happen. They become irritated by petty annoy-ances, are thrown into a dither by minor pressures and then things get way out of proportion. Result? Tension!

BUT TENSION can be eliminated, certainly brought under control. The secret is to get to its source. In a book, "Master Your Tensions and Enjoy Living Again," the au-thors, Dr. George Steven-son and Harry Milt, both of whom were associated with the National Associa-tion for Mental Health, write that "pure tension, that is, the feeling of being keyed up and taut as a bow string, is hardly ever experienced by itself. It is almost always felt as part of an overall emotional up-set. You may say, 'I feel tense,' but if you were to look into that feeling a lit-tle more closely, you would find that you really mean: 'I feel unhappy, mis-erable, blue, worried, touchy, irritable.'"

Less Methodists, more giving

REDLANDS — Member-ship in United Methodist congregations of Southern California, Arizona, South-ern Nevada and Hawaii dropped 4 per cent in the past year but those who remained faithful to the church increased their fi-nancial support 7 per cent to an all-time high, it was reported at the annual con-ference this week.

No Long Beach-area pas-tors were reassigned to other churches in the an-nual changes announced Thursday night by Bishop Gerald Kennedy, who is retiring this year.

Another 'first'

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York State Con-ference of the United Church of Christ elected a woman moderator for the first time in its history.

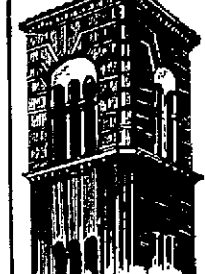

Rev. Margaret R. Eddy, pastor of the Church of the Resurrection in East Har-lem, was unanimously elected as conference mod-erator at the end of the an-nual meeting on the cam-pus of Ithaca College.

Briefly... Marriages reconsecrated, PS on presidents' religion

Anyone for remarriage Sunday? That doesn't sound right, let's start over. Anyone for reconse-cration of their marriage? Bethany Lutheran Church, 4644 Clark Ave., is holding a special service Sunday, 7 p.m., featuring a proces-sional march of married couples, repeating of the marriage vows, and bless-ing of all participants.

Purpose of the service, says Rev. Nathan O. Leesch, pastor, is "to help strengthen the marriage and family life of persons in church and commu-nity." At the conclusion of the service, a "wedding re-cption" will be held in the parish hall. All married couples are welcome, bar none.

REV. DR. James A. Bor-ror, pastor of First Baptist Church of Lakewood (which is in Long Beach on Arbor Road), will re-ceive the Holiday Inn "Chaplain-on-Call" merit award Sunday at 11 a.m. during the morning ser-vice.

The plaque is in recog-nition of Borror's work as a volunteer chaplain on call to guests at the Long Beach Holiday Inn. The non-denominational pro-gram was instituted by the chain to help travelers

"DEAR SIR," writes Mrs. M. L. of Long Beach, "In your listing of the reli-gions of our presidents you also gave the religion of presidential possibilities within the Democratic Party. I wonder why you left out Sen. Edward Ken-nedy, since many writers say he may still be called by the convention to lead the party in the presiden-tial race."

Dear Mrs. M. L.: The reason I left out Sen. Ken-nedy is simply that I take him at his word that he will under no circum-stances be a candidate for president in 1972. For the record, he is, of course, the younger brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, and is a Roman Catholic.

Another communication, from "P and F," asks about Dr. Spock, the baby doctor who may be a splin-ter group presidential can-didate. The doc comes from old New England Episco-pal stock.

IF ANYONE thinks the differences on the Vietnam war don't run deep in this land in every which direc-tion, this is from an AP story from Dallas on Exple 72, after telling that Gen. Ralph Haines, commander of the U.S. Continental Army Command, came to the Cotton Bowl to address the youthful evangelists.

"A small group of anti-war protesters," the story continues, "held up a ban-ner which read: 'Cross or Flag; Christ or Country,' and chanted several times 'Stop the war, stop the war.'"

INTERIM PASTOR Vir-gil F. Halbig at North Long Beach Christian Church, tells of serving in Spokane many years ago and becoming acquainted with Mrs. John B. Dodd of that city, the founder of Fathers Day, which he says began in the churches of Spokane in 1910. It was first proclaimed by Wash-ington governor Hay, and then endorsed by President Wilson in 1916, when he helped the unfurling of a special flag in Spokane.

In addition to honoring all fathers in the church this Sunday, Pastor Halbig says five will be specially honored: the oldest father present, the youngest, the one who has been a Chris-tian the longest, the most recently baptized, and the father present with the largest family.

LECTURER

"Stay on the Beam" is the title of a free public lec-ture to be given Sunday, 3 p.m. in First Church at Christ, Scientist, 440 Elm Ave., by Christian Scientist lecturer Eugene Depledge Tye. After serving in mili-tary intelligence during World War II, Tye went into business, and retired in 1957 to become a full time lecturer.

Anniversary Mass for local priest

An Anniversary Mass will be held Sunday at noon in St. Cornelius Cath-olic Church for Rev. Fran-cis J. Pyka, on the occa-sion of his 25 years in the priesthood. A reception will follow to which friends of Father Pyka and the church are invited.

Father Pyka, 51, now pastor of a church in Pres-cott, Ariz., grew up in Long Beach, graduated from St. Anthony's, and celebrated his first Mass at St. Lucy's Church here.

At Calvary

Rev. Harold E. Doty, a veteran Baptist minister who has held many South-land pastorates, and served for three years dur-ing World War II as a chaplain, is serving as in-terim pastor for Calvary Baptist Church, Lime Ave-nue and South St.

Bellflower to honor Baptist pastor's work

Bellflower Mayor Ken Cleveland will bring greet-ings and congratulations at special services Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church, 14722 Clark Ave., to honor Rev. Dr. H. Frank Collins for his nine years of ser-vice.

When Dr. Collins came in 1963 the Sunday School was averaging 375. Today it is averaging about 1300 and according to Christian Life Magazine, is listed among the 50 largest in the nation.

The nationally known

Weatherford Quartet and the Payne family will pre-sent special music in all services.

The church supports 20 missionaries, two of them receiving all of their sup-port from Calvary; a full-time evangelist; a six min-ister staff; has built and staffed a Bible College in the northern provinces of the Philippines, is en-gaged in an expanding bus-iness ministry which serves over 10 cities in a 40 square-mile area and produces programs heard over KFOX, Long Beach.

Christian Science A promise for peace

Christ Jesus taught his followers: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you" (Matt. 5:44).

If everyone would fulfill the promise of his teaching, and express the love and intelligence that Jesus did, we would have peace on earth.

If this sounds meaningful to you, visit our public testimony meeting this week. It could help you find your own peace.

Sierra Club sues over lands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Sierra Club asked a federal court Friday to block any development of the last 40 million acres of large wilderness tracts on national forest lands which the government is reviewing to determine their fate.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court, the San Francisco-based conservation organization charged that the National Forest Service's study of "de Facto" wilderness areas was "grossly deficient" and had "denied any meaningful opportunity for public participation".

The Forest Service is making a nationwide inventory of these areas, which the club said "are valuable remnants of wilderness which lack any designation of national significance and permanence to protect them," to determine which should be preserved as national wilderness and which should be opened for logging, road-building and other development.

Senate OKs S.F. refuge

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Congress completed work Friday on legislation to create a 22,000-acre wildlife refuge in the San Francisco Bay Area. After the Senate approved the House-passed measure, the bill was sent to the White House for final signing.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who co-sponsored the measure with Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., said the creation of the refuge would halt continued filling of the bay, commercial and industrial development in the area, and "efforts to cram more and more people into the bay area which would make it grow less and less habitable."

The House measure, which was adopted in early February, was sponsored by Rep. Don Edwards, D-San Jose.

The refuge would stretch from the Redwood City and Menlo Park areas of San Mateo County, south to the Alviso area of San Jose in Santa Clara County and North to Fremont in Alameda County.

The legislation authorizes $20.3 million to develop the refuge over the next five years. The amount includes $9 million for land acquisition.

"The measure creates a unique and outstanding urban wildlife area and preserves the South Bay as a human refuge for some four million residents," Cranston said.

In addition to halting development, the refuge would also provide a sanctuary for numerous species of birds and animals living in the sloughs and marshes that are under threat of extinction.

The bill was originally developed by the San Francisco Baylands Planning Conservation and National Wildlife Refuge Committee, a citizen's group headquartered in Santa Clara County.

Creation of the refuge was supported by the U.S. Interior Department, the California General Assembly and Santa Clara, San Mateo and Alameda Counties.

The club's suit seeks an injunction against any development in the 40 million acres until the government prepares environmental-impact statements, completes detailed studies of the areas and holds public hearings to permit adequate comment by citizens.

Club President Raymond J. Sherwin said the Forest Service's review has been "a travesty of due process." In some areas, the club said, the actual inventory has been nonexistent and no public meetings have been held.

Sherwin said the wilderness review "presents a significant opportunity to make major additions to the wilderness system before roads are built and the timber is cut, scarring these lands forever."

The Sierra Club was joined in the suit by the Natural Resources Defense Council, the North Cascades Conservation Council and the Colorado Open Space Council. Listed as defendants were Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and John McGuire, the Forest Service director.

Q- Would you tell me if stock transactions through the so-called third exchange are reputable? My former broker has gone into business for himself and tells me I will save on commissions if I deal through him. I am ready to sell a rather large block of stock and am undercertain whether to deal with him or not. Naturally, I'd like to save money on commissions.

market." This is the trading done by over-the-counter dealers in stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Because these dealers are not members of the exchange, they are not bound by the exchange's commission structure but can cut their commission prices at will.

If your broker is getting into this kind of business — handling third-market trades in listed stocks for small investors — he can offer you commission savings. But, I stress again, you must satisfy yourself about the integrity of your broker and the services he gives you on trade executions. An unskillful broker can lose you more money than you save in commissions if he doesn't get you the best price when he ex-

It's wise in retirement to re-examine your objectives because goals change. When you were accumulating these funds, the possibility of capital appreciation overshadowed dividend income. Now that income is more important, a fund which generates more dividends — or bonds if you want to be a direct investor — would be more immediately rewarding.

Q. WE HAVE a large number of shares in two mutual funds. We ceased buying four years ago. As a retired couple, we're looking for more income but feel we should do better elsewhere. Should we redeem? If so, where to turn?

A. You own shares in two of the country's largest mutual funds. One is a balanced fund which stresses stability; the other is a growth-and-income fund. You can do better on a current income basis either in an income fund, and one is offered by the same management company (thereby saving you a conversion cost), or in top-quality bonds.

I'd suggest you discuss with your broker or fund agent the possibility of a switch. This can be either partial — one of your funds — or complete. The income fund in this investment company complex has been yielding about 6 per cent, which would seem more suitable for you than the funds you now hold.

Earl Wilson

Jennifer won't wed Elliot; 'she's too smart...'

NEW YORK—“She won't marry me, she's too smart,” Elliott Gould said, with his arm around little Jennifer Bogart, mother of his daughter, who's expecting another child. “She'll have my children, but she won't marry me. She says it's more romantic this way.”

The new Elliott Gould, with hair shortened and beard gone, served some punch in their Greenwich Village home and spoke of going back to acting after being “frozen out” of pictures for many months following a collision he had with some people in the big business jungle.

“I discovered it's a rough place,” he said.

“You can't go in there. You'll get burned to death.”

HE HEARD monstrous stories about how erratic he'd become. He didn't get work. “And I had been the hottest actor around. I had been offered everything.” But now the freeze-out has unfrozen; he's nicely barbered to play a private eye in “The Long Good-bye,” a Raymond Chandler story.

“Now I look like the client my agents want to represent!” He ran his hand through his hair. “I still don't comb it. I'm just one of those people that don't have to comb their hair.”

“It's hard to comb his kind of hair,” Jennifer spoke up defensively, from behind her own Afro hair-do and sweat shirt with “Puerto Rico” across the front. Baby Molly had gone off to play with neighbors.

“IT COST me a lot, learning what I learned.”

Elliott remarked. “My accountant figured out I'll have to make four movies to get even.”

Elliott said he and his former wife Barbra Streisand are friendly. Jason, their son, is 5½.

“Want to see a current picture of him?” He held forth a snap of Jason—with Jennifer and daughter Molly. “He's very profound,” boasted Elliott, as any father might. “He said he's sorry he's ever been born. He explained that if I'd never been born, he'd never have to die...” THE he'd never been born, he'd never have to die.”

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

The McGovernites are celebrating as though they already were in. Pierre Salinger, so long with the Kennedys, whooped it up for 400 McGovernites at Raffles, and “Models for McGovern” will meet there. Shirley MacLaine and Warren Beatty can have any ambassadorship they want if The Man gets in... Dick Cavett's mgrs. think he has a great future as a movie star—or star of a once-a-week TV show... The Plaza Persian Room asked Paul Anka to do extra shows. He can't because of recording chores... Glamourgal Terry Moore was at Quo Vadis with labor relations counsel Milton Holt.

MADMOISELLE'S huge 7th Ave. block party saluting the fashion industry reportedly cost $25,000—a great show of confidence in NY City—Bill Holden gives the NY females a treat any hour now... Thanks, Doubleday, for making poor little “Show Business Nobody Knows” No. 4 best seller... Flash: A fetish-type burglar took 8 prs. of Ursula Andress' new shoes from her hotel suite, leaving jewelry, etc., behind.

SCOOP: Princess Anne will capitalize on the sympathy for the Duke & Duchess of Windsor and force her mother the Queen to allow her to marry commoner Richard Meade this very summer, forecasts our expert on such matters, Richard Gully. Princess Anne won't have to renounce her royal rank.

Gower Champion, a perfectionist, is still rearranging some of the dance numbers in “Sugar,” which opened two months ago... Secret Stuff: The co-stars of a new show are battling so loudly that the author was called in to make peace... Ralph Meeker and his wife Carine gave a farewell party at La Scala; he's leaving to make a film in Holland.

Burt Reynolds was invited to be the main attraction at a Florida nudist camp's volleyball tourney. (Burt said he doesn't play volleyball)... A fan said to Arthur Miller at Pier 52, “I know it sometimes takes you years to write a play—would you take five seconds to write an autograph?” (He got the autograph.)

6,000 at Ormandy's Wolf Trap

WASHINGTON (UP) — Cabinet members, ambassadors, members of Congress and just plain music lovers were among more than 6,000 persons holding tickets for this year's sold-out inaugural concert at Wolf Trap Farm Park Friday night.

The Philadelphia Orchestra conducted by its music director, Eugene Ormandy, planned a symphonic concert ranging from Bach and Mahler to Roy Harris. Also on the program for the traditional opening ceremony was the U.S. Marine Corps Band.

LITTLE BIG MAN — Dustin Hoffman recreates both tragic and farcical episodes in the life of a 121-year-old western gun-fighter. (PG).

BEDKNOBS AND BROOMSTICKS — Angela Lansbury stars as an amateur witch in this Walt Disney production's musical fantasy. (G).

Judy Canova thinks the hillbillies are here to stay

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Judy Canova, the freckle-faced, pigtailed comedienne of the 1930s and 1940s, is breaking up audiences right now in the road company of "No, No, Nanette."

Although her voice is a blend of smooth dialects, it was her hillbilly accent and homilies that made her the single biggest female star on radio. For a dozen years she starred on NBC with her own weekly brand of bumpkin humor and songs.

Judy, her hair still in pigtails but dyed black for her stage role, believes there is a universality to hick comedy.

Notwithstanding the demise of "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Green Acres," "Mayberry R.F.D.," "Peticoat Junction" and "The Andy Griffith Show," the little native of Starke, Fla., believes country shows will return.

"Hillbilly humor is Americana," said Judy. "I based my career on folklore from the sticks when I was just a little kid."

"It began when my cousin Marie came down from Douglas, Ga., and taught me to sing 'I Wish I Was A Single Gal Again.'"

"I was only 10 years old when my sister and I did a show in St. Petersburg. I wore white powder on my face, a straw hat and a vest. After the performance a man told me he wanted me to play character roles. He almost fainted when he found I was only 10."

Rural humor isn't confined to mountaineer country or the southeast, says Judy.

"You can find it in any section of the country: New England, Texas, the Middle West. The big difference is that hillbilly music became country and western music to go along with the comedy."

"You don't hear much of that sort of music beginning in other parts of the United States," she said.

"The biggest hicks I ever met were right in New York City. I asked a lady there once to come and visit me in Florida and she said she was afraid that an alligator would bite her as she walked down the street."

Judy still makes her home in Hollywood, just above the Sunset Strip. For the past several years she has appeared in concert, at fairs and special shows with a 50-minute act of songs and patter.

"Part of my act is country humor because the people expect it and like it. Gets a lot of laughs," she said.

"You may find this hard to believe, but in the early days Lum and Abner asked me to join them on the show, making it a team of three. Then after I got my own radio show Red Skelton did an audition for me."

"I knew Red was great. He didn't need me."

Judy is happy with her role in "No, No, Nanette," even after seven strenuous months on the road in a cast that stars June Allyson.

"I'm playing a maid in this show," Judy said. "First time I ever did such a thing and got paid for it."

Then, lapsing into her yokel accent, she concluded, "cepting at home where I'm the maid for

Russian boozers are being deprived by law

By DAVID NAGY

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Friday decreed prohibition Moscow-

style with orders that will dry up much of the production, sale and consumption of vodka, brandy and whiskies.

The aim is to slay "The Green Dragon" — Russia's most popular cheap vodka — and other hard liquors that contribute to widespread alcoholism and drunkenness in the Soviet Union.

The tool designed to work where all else has failed will be an unprecedented set of "dry laws" outlined in the form of government decrees and orders in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper.

IN ESSENCE, they will stop the public sale of the strongest vodkas and hard liquors entirely and restrict the sales of weaker alcoholic drinks to places where on-duty workers can't conveniently get them.

The government has decided to implement measures to curb the production of vodka and hard liquors in the period from 1972 to 1975, and will boost the production of soft drinks, wines and beers in compensation, Pravda said.

The principle ban — the bottles provisions were these:

— A complete ban on the production of vodka containing 50 or 56 per cent alcohol "for public consumption." These are the two strongest Russian vodkas now produced for local consumption.

— In a provision aimed squarely at Russia's hard-swilling working man and at youth, "an absolute prohibition of the sale of vodka and other alcoholic drinks of more than 30 per cent alcohol content in all shops situated in the vicinity of industrial enterprises, construction sites, educational institutions, child-care establishments, hospitals, health resorts, piers, railroad stations, air terminals and places of mass entertainment for workers."

— A ban on sale of hard liquors "in small retail shops, dining rooms (local restaurants), buffets and all specialized food stores."

— A ban on sale of vodka and any other alcoholic drinks to children, which means persons under 16 years of age.

— Restriction in sales of hard liquors of more than 30 per cent alcohol, even in large stores cleared to sell them, to the period between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. — when most men are at work.

— An order to the governments of the Soviet republics to "consider" banning the sale of liquors above the 30 per cent alcohol mark entirely during holidays, when Soviets like to celebrate with heavy doses of spirits.

Crusader, 11, will battle vitamin ads

By AL ROSSITER Jr.

MELBOURNE, Fla. (UPI) — Dawn Ann Kurth, the 11-year-old who told a Senate Committee what she thought about television commercials, hopes her consumer advocacy campaign is just beginning.

"The next thing I want to do is get vitamin commercials taken off Saturday morning cartoon shows," she said.

"I feel if they want to advertise these vitamins they should advertise them at night where the parents can see these commercials and decide whether their kids should eat this vitamin or not. Children shouldn't have to decide for themselves."

Dawn received wide news coverage after testifying before a panel chaired by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, in Washington May 31. She criticized what she said were deceptive television commercials aimed at children. She and her mother, Mrs. Pat Kurth, called the continuing response she has received "overwhelming."

Dawn has received dozens of letters from across the nation and in the first week after her Washington testimony she appeared on a network television talk show. Piles of newspapers with stories of her effort filled a sofa in the living room of the Kurth house.

"It's amazing what has happened," said Mrs. Kurth. "For an average person, and that's what we consider ourselves, an average family, all this stuff, when you stop and think about it, it is just unbelievable."

Dawn, sitting on a white shag rug while a fresh breeze swept in the living room from a golf course across the street, said the publicity helps her cause and she hopes more people will write and tell her what they think about television commercials designed for children.

"I think more things could get done if the FTC (Federal Trade Commission) and Sen. Moss and the networks and different people like that find out the public is really interested in this, and mad about these commercials that are put on Saturday morning TV shows," she said.

The poised, pretty fifth grader suggested that ads aimed at children could be improved "by telling the truth about products, and not telling the consumer or the child, whoever is watching, they should buy it because it's yummy or delicious or because it tastes like a chocolate cookie."

"Being a kid, I feel what would be interesting on commercials would be if they could tell how they made the product, and how they put it in boxes and, if they sugar coated it, how they sugar coated it."

Dawn said the idea for her advertising survey was her own. It was part of a project for the Talented Student Program in schools of Brevard County, home of the Cape Kennedy spaceport.

The youngster said she heard about the hearings being conducted by Moss "and all I did really was to send him a letter. I asked if I could come and testify and give a child's view of the whole thing. So he wrote back and said he'd be delighted."

"She just asked," said her mother. "It's that simple."

Mrs. Kurth said a prepared text was sent to the committee in advance and "what she sent was not word for word what she said. But it was very close to it."

"They were all my ideas," said Dawn. "My parents, my teachers, my principal and my father's secretary all helped me with spelling and grammar and different things like that."

Mrs. Kurth said neither she nor her husband, Alan, a mechanical engineer who rides a bicycle to work, had been involved in consumer affairs before.

"In fact, I wasn't even aware of what was being said on these commercials until Dawn started the project," she said. "For the first time in my life I sat down Saturday morning and watched TV for three or four hours. It will make a believer out of you. Something needs to be done."

Dawn, who has three sisters aged to 9, said she also was concerned about other problems, such as pollution, the war in Vietnam, and drug abuse — "the main things that people wish they could stop."

When she grows up, Dawn said she would like to study law and maybe even go into politics where she could carry on her campaign.

THE "LEVADE" is performed by a Royal Lipizzan Stallion, with Tony Smaha, Jr., of the famed rider-trainer family in the saddle. The stallions will appear in "The Wonderful World of Horses" at Anaheim Convention Center July 4-5, and at the Long Beach Arena July 8 and 9. The Levaade is a feat in which the horse must maintain a haunched position, at a 45 degree angle to the ground.

USC wins 8th title as McQueen stymies ASU

Combined News Services

OMAHA — Southern California came off the deck from a near-knockout for the third successive season, wrapping up its eighth College World Series baseball crown with a 1-0 victory over Arizona State Friday evening.

The player who near single-handedly beat the nation's No. 1-ranked Sun Devils for the title was sophomore Russ McQueen.

The Lakewood High graduate, who labored on the junior varsity last season and didn't make the trip to Omaha, capped a sizzling series of relief stints with a five-inning performance that brought him Most Valuable Player honors.

USC was hanging precariously to one-run lead when Arizona State came to bat in the fifth inning. Starting pitcher Mark Sogge had been menaced in each of the first three innings, but was saved by two doubleplays.

Dan White opened the fifth with a single. Pitcher Jim Crawford laid down a bunt that the Trojans hotched into a fielder's choice, leaving two runners aboard. When Sogge walked Bump Wills, USC coach Rod Dedeaux came with the hook.

"Everyone knew Mark had a bad arm (tendonitis much of the season)," said Dedeaux after receiving his seventh NCAA title trophy. "We were way down in the pitching department this season. All we needed were 4 or 5 good innings out of Mark tonight and he gave them to us."

Enter McQueen in one of the most nerve-sapping situations of any sport.

Ken Reed hit an infield grounder that forced White at the plate. Gary Atwell popped out to rightfield and Al Bannister grounded out to second base.

McQueen had thrown only five pitches — all strikes — and the Sun Devils never threatened again. An ASU team hitting .331 coming into the Series managed only one hit and two baserunners thereafter.

In four trips from the bullpen, McQueen did not allow a run over a span of 14 innings. He struck out 14, retiring the last eight men he faced Friday — four of them on strikes.

USC's run came in the third inning when Tim Steele singled and Daryl Arenstein walked. Sogge forced Arenstein at second and Steele moved to third. Then Crawford, who had shut out the Trojans, 3-0, on six hits Monday, uncorked a wild pitch and Steele trotted home.

Arenstein, Steele and catcher Sam Cecil joined McQueen on the all-tournament team. Former Millikan High hurler Craig Swan led the ASU contingent on the 10-man squad.

Sogge, McQueen (5) and Cecil, Crawford and Myers.

ARNIE, GALLERY IN ANGUISH

Wonder who's in more anguish—Arnold Palmer or gallery surrounding fifth green where birdie putt failed to drop Friday. Youngsters in tree saw Arnie en route to sizzling 68 — low round in U.S. Open to date — that put him in second place.

Dodgers' bats freeze up at Chicago, 4-0

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

CHICAGO — The cold wind whipped off Lake Michigan at 20 miles per hour and turned Wrigley Field, the home of the Chicago Cubs, from a sauna into a refrigerator.

The temperature climbed all the way to 50 degrees Friday afternoon and, needless to say, there was considerable grumbling among the Dodgers as they bunched up for the pre-game batting practice.

Hearing enough of the complaining, 48-year-old coach Danny Ozark grabbed a bat, stepped into the batting cage and with one swipe nailed one off the wall.

But the Dodgers failed to get the message although the Cubs did.

Despite the strong, cold wind, Billy Williams and Jim Hickman struck home runs as young Burt Hooton blanked the Dodgers, 4-0, before 20,257 chilled fans.

"I didn't think there was any chance of hitting one out today," confessed Williams, a man who's now slugged five homers in three games. "But when Hickman hit his, I got new life."

The Dodgers, though, continued in their offensive trance, a prolonged lull that continues to puzzle manager Walter Alston.

"I'm not concerned about the one shutout as much as I am about our over-all failure to score runs," he said grimly. "We've seen some good pitching the last two weeks and I don't expect us to hit the fences every time. But I do expect us to score more runs than we have."

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the first inning against Hooton, the former University of Texas all-American, but failed to come up with the key hit. After that they managed the grand sum of four singles and Alston, who's tried

Tigers: no fear of big, bad Birds

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

Who's afraid of the big, bad birds?

Certainly not Billy Martin, the renowned pugilist, and his Detroit Tigers.

"We proved to ourselves we could beat them last year—we beat them five times in a row during one stretch," Martin paused to say after the Tigers, he-hind Joe Coleman and a pair of home runs, pasted a 3-0 licking on the Angels.

A check of the standings today in the American League East reveals Baltimore and Detroit in a flat-footed tie.

"It's going to be a hell of a race," Martin promised.

"We've got the hitting — when it comes around — and we've got a good bullpen," he said. "It's going to depend on our third and fourth starters — (Tom) Timmerman and (Joe) Nickro. If they do the job we'll be all right."

Leaving nothing to chance, Martin started Coleman Friday night and he responded with a three-hit shutout, striking out 10 Angels in the process as a serious power shortage persisted in Orange County.

Typecast, Convenience duel for $250,000

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Staff Writer

The richest match race in American turf history will take place this afternoon at Hollywood Park when Typecast, a 6-year-old mare, and Convenience, a 4-year-old filly, meet for the winner-take-all $250,000 purse.

The distaff horses aren't that great, but the purse is. Fletcher Jones and Leonard Lavin, respective owners of Typecast and Convenience, each bumped for $100,000 to determine which girl horse was the best of her class in the country, while Hollywoodpark contributed an additional $50,000.

The chase will be at the mile and one-eighth distance, which would seem to favor Typecast, who can run that route any day of the week, whereas Convenience seems to lose gas after seven furlongs.

Both horses will carry equal weights, 112 pounds, another factor for Typecast.

The match race was proposed by Jones, who blew his cool when Convenience defeated his mare by one-half length two weeks ago in the $100,000-added Vanity Handicap.

At the time, Typecast had an impost of 126 pounds, with Convenience carrying 121 pounds of lead and a jockey.

Shortly after the Vanity Handicap, Jones issued a challenge to Lavin. The latter accepted, although the terms were dictated by Jones.

Jones pulled another cute trick when he disposed of Typecast's regular jockey, Victor Tejada, in favor of Bill Shoemaker. Tejada won two of three races with Typecast, then Fletcher bade him goodbye.

Jerry Lambert will be aboard Convenience, which is

RACE GIVEN EXACTA

Exacta wagering has been approved by the California Horse Racing Board for today's $250,000 match race between Typecast and Convenience at Hollywood Park.

Exacta wagering involves picking the order of the winner and runner-up in a race. Win betting was previously approved for the richest two-horse race ever run on American turf.

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The threat of stormy weather failed to daunt the largest fleet of boats ever to start the 635-mile Newport-to-Bermuda race Friday as 179 yachts left the starting line under cloudy skies.

SPORTS CALENDAR

Auto Racing — Golden State 400 practice and qualifying, California 100. Riverside International Raceway, 9 a.m.; sportsman and hobby cars, Orange Show Speedway, 7:30 p.m.; claiming, figure eight and hardtop stocks, San Gabriel Valley Speedway, 8 p.m.; sprint cars, Ascot Park, 8:30 p.m.

This will be the richest, but not the first, match race at Hollywoodpark.

Fair Truckle, a thoroughbred, was beaten by Barbra B., a quarterhorse, in 1947.

Most famous match race in the West was in 1936 at Del Mar when Seabiscuit defeated Ligarotti for a $25,000 purse.

Most famous match race in history probably was the Nashua-Swaps duel in Chicago in 1955. Eddie Arcaro whipped Shoemaker in that one, but both riders admitted after the race that the "off" track bothered Swaps.

First highest match race was the $100,000 affair in 1947 at Belmont Park in New York when Armed defeated Triple Crown winner Assault. The Nashua-Swaps everything else, prescribed more changes for this afternoon's game.

"We've tried everyone else," he said, "so we'll give Bill Grabarkewitz a chance."

The manager said it in such a way that it was obvious Grabarkewitz is not the solution.

Willie Davis, back in the lineup after suffering a muscle pull last Sunday in Dodger Stadium, collected one hit and walked twice. He's the man Alston repeatedly has said will make a difference in the Dodgers' attack.

"We're getting hits but not at the right time," Alston added. "What games we have won have been 2-1 or 3-2."

The Dodgers haven't won many at all, though. They've dropped six of their last 10 starts, a span which has seen them not only drop out of first place in the National League West, but fall a considerable distance back of leading Cincinnati.

The Dodgers continue to get respectable pitching but nothing to back it up. Claude Osteren scattered nine hits Friday and the Dodgers turned over four doubleplays, giving them seven in the last two games, but the offense remains reluctant.

Hooton has benefited more than any other pitcher by the Dodgers' untimely hitting. In two starts he's been shelled by 19 hits — all of them singles — and just one run.

"Frankly," Alston said of Hooton, "we don't think he's that good but you sure couldn't prove it by the way we score runs against him."

Hickman drilled a shot into the stands in the second inning, a blow that caught even Hooton by surprise.

"The way the wind was blowing I figured I could pitch some guys high and not have to worry about getting one hit out," he said. "But when Hickman hit that one, I couldn't believe it. I sure changed my pitching pattern in a hurry."

Hickman's blow made it 1-0 and Williams, the Cubs' unsung super star, hit a two-run homer in the second.

DODGER DOPE: Manny Mota was sidelined Friday by a pulled muscle in his right leg. He'll be out another two days. Bill Backer extended his hitting streak to 10 games with his first-inning single. He's hit safely in 26 of the last 19 games he's batted.

Al Downing '82 pitches today's game for the Dodgers, against the Philadelphia Phillies at 7:15 p.m. at Dodger Stadium.

Sunday Bill Singer opposes Cy Young Award winner Ferguson Jenkins.

Don Sutton will pitch Monday night's game in Pittsburgh, with Tommy John, pitched in Thursday. Sutton worked only three-pitch innings in last Wednesday night's rainout in St. Louis.

The Dodgers will be on national TV today and Monday, both games broadcast on Southern California's KTLA-TV Channel 5.

Wynn's homer shades Phils

HOUSTON — Jim Wynn, fined $100 earlier in the baseball game for throwing his helmet, greeted relief pitcher Dick Selma with a leadoff home run in the 11th inning Friday night, giving Houston a 1-0 victory over Philadelphia.

Wynn socked Selma's 2-1 pitch over the left field fence after Philadelphia starter Steve Carlton blanked the Astros on six hits and struck out 13 before leaving for a pinch hitter in the top of the 11th.

The triumph lifted Houston into a second-place tie with the Dodgers in the National League West, 2½ games behind Cincinnati.

Wynn was slapped with an automatic $100 fine in the fourth inning when he threw his batting helmet while arguing with umpire Bruce Froemming after being called out on strikes.

Tom Griffin, who took over in the seventh after Houston starter Don Wilson pulled a muscle in his right leg, allowed six hits but was strong in the clutch.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Baltimore Orioles won their first run with a single and tripled in the other two Friday night as Baltimore downed Minnesota, 3-0, for its eighth victory in a row.

Jim Palmer recorded his eighth win in his last nine decisions, boosting his record to 8-3 although Grant Jackson relieved him and struck out Rick Renick with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to end the game.

Don Baylor knocked in Baltimore's first run in the third inning with a sacrifice fly after Bobby Grich doubled and went to third on Blair's single.

Gets 10th win Holtzman ends Oakland slide

OAKLAND — Ken Holtzman, staked to a four-run lead in the first inning of Friday night's American League game, stopped Cleveland on seven hits for his 10th victory as the Oakland A's snapped a four-game losing streak with a 5-0 triumph over the Indians.

Holtzman, who became the fourth major league pitcher to win 10 games this season, struck out five and did not walk a batter.

The victory enabled the A's to increase their lead in the AL West to three games over idle Chicago and six over Minnesota.

Jets sweep pair from East L.A.

Ed Klecker pitched a no-hitter and struck out 14 of the 22 batters he faced Friday night as the Lakewood Jets took a doubleheader from East L.A. in Western Softball Congress competition, 12-2 and 2-0.

Back-to-back doubles by Bill Hardy and Nick Hopkins accounted for both of the Jets' runs in the fourth inning of the nightcap.

Reed's shutout enables Braves to gain split

ATLANTA — Ron Reed fired a seven-hit shutout and Earl Williams rapped a two-run single as Atlanta whipped Montreal 2-0 Friday night to split a National League baseball two-night doubleheader.

The Expos won the opener 7-4 with a four-run ninth, with the tying run scoring on an error and the lead run on Ron Fairly's pinch single to right. Jim Fahey delivered a two-run pinch single to left to put the game on ice.

First game: Montreal 7, Atlanta 2. Second game: Atlanta 2, Montreal 0.

American 10,000-meter record snapped; Matson tosses 69-6 1/2

SEATTLE — Greg Fredericks, 22, a Penn State senior, stunned a good field in the 10,000-meter run and established an American record of 28:08 to cap the second day of the National AAU track and field championships.

The 6-foot, 155-pounder ran fourth behind Tom Laris of the New York A.C., Frank Shorter and Jack Bachelor of the Florida Track Club most of the way. Laris led at the six-mile mark, but then Fredericks pulled into the lead.

He broke past the three veterans at the head of the backstretch to open a 20-yard lead on Shorter, clocking 56 seconds on his last lap.

The previous American mark for 10,000 was 28:17.6 set by Billy Mills in 1965 at Augsburg, West Germany.

Shorter ran 28:12.0, Laris 28:12.6 and Bachelor 28:13.4 for the next fastest times ever by Americans.

The only other record broken during the day which saw six titles decided was in the shotput where world record holder Randy Matson flipped the 16-pound ball 69 1/2 feet.

Robert Taylor of Texas Southern took the 100-meter dash when he pulled away in a powerful performance over the last 50 meters for a time of 10.2.

Taylor was a couple of strides ahead of the next four finishers, who were bunched so closely it took meet officials half an hour to decide the final placings.

Defending champion Arnie Robinson won the long jump with a final leap of 26-5 1/2 to nip Jacques Pani of France.

NBA fines nine players who faced ABA

Combined News Services

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. — The National Basketball Assn. said Friday it would fine nine players, including Wilt Chamberlain and Oscar Robertson, $3,000 each for appearing in a non-sanctioned post-season all-star game against ABA players.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy said the league's board of governors voted unanimously to fine the players the amount of money they earned for playing in the game.

Two NBA players, Paul Silas and Connie Hawkins, both of the Phoenix Suns, escaped the fines because they received permission to play in the game from club owner Richard L. Bloch.

The NBA, in the second day of its scheduled two-day meeting, also said any possible decision regarding a possible merger with the younger league is perhaps a week away.

The board of governors unanimously passed a resolution in directing Kennedy to fine each player who participated without permission from his club in the May 25 game at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y., home of the ABA's New York Nets. The contest was sponsored by each league's player association.

The ABA has not taken any action, or threatened to do so, against any of its stars who played.

In New York, Larry Fleisher, counsel for the NBA Players' Assn., said the board of governors' action was "outrageous and will not be tolerated."

He added that, if Kennedy levies the fines, the players would either take legal action to overturn the assessments or might call a general strike next September. Kennedy refused comment on Fleisher's statements.

The group included Bob Lanier of Detroit, Chamberlain and Gail Goodrich of the Lakers, Archie Clarke of Baltimore, Robertson of Milwaukee, Bob Love of Chicago, John Havlicek of Boston, Nate Archibald of Cincinnati and Dave DeBusschere of New York.

DeBusschere actually did not play because of a rib injury, but he suited up and the commission said that the Knicks' forward was thus considered a participant.

The governors ordered the fines to be equal to the amount earned by each participant. They also directed that the fines collected would be donated to appropriate charities for research foundations at the commissioner's discretion.

40-minute breather for BJK

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Billie Jean King of Long Beach won the West of England women's tennis championship Friday when she demolished Kerry Melville of Australia, 6-3, 6-2, in just 40 minutes.

Mrs. King virtually coasted to the $5,200 first prize.

In the men's semifinals, Alex Olmedo of Encino, Calif., continued his successful comeback campaign with a 6-4, 9-8 victory over Francois Jauffret. But Bob Hewitt of South Africa kept it from being an all-American final by eliminating Clark Grabner of New York, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Olmedo, back on the international circuit after an absence of three years, fell and strained a thumb at the end of his match with Jauffret. He received medical attention but said he didn't think it would handicap him in the final.

Olmedo, a veteran back on the international circuit for the first time in three years, should be fit to play in today's final, which is worth $7,880 — to the winner — the biggest prize in Britain outside Wimbledon. The runnerup gets $2,680.

California 100 polesitter

Proctor full of surprises —may retire next week

By ALLEN WOLFE Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Clem Proctor just loves to keep people guessing.

As late as seven days ago, the 46-year-old Paramount tavern owner said he would pass up today's California 100 for early model Sportsman stock cars at Riverside International Raceway, concentrating instead on Sunday's Golden State 400 for Grand National stock cars.

The affable, gregarious Proctor revealed he had signed to drive a '72 Oldsmobile in Sunday's $70,000 "big one" — his first NASCAR Grand National at Riverside since the 1966 Motor Trend 500.

So what happens? Ol' Clem and his ancient relic, a red, white and blue Thunderbird he has campaigned since 1963, rode in on a wisp of wind last Sunday to qualify for the California 100, traditional prelude to the Golden State 400.

To no one's surprise, the combination — as perfectly matched as peanut butter and jelly — set the day's fast time and won the pole position. Proctor's "hot lap" of 105.010 mph was only a stopwatch tick off Riverside's track record for Sportsman cars.

The 24-year-old veteran has now won five of the last six pole positions over Riverside's 2.62-mile, 8-turn road course.

"I haven't pinpointed a date yet, but I'm definitely going to retire (from racing) sometime shortly after the two races this weekend," laughs the man who greets guests at his Starlight Lounge in Paramount and has a fan club following that would make Joe Namath feel proud.

"I bought a cattle ranch in Arkansas. It's on a long lake, there's a dock on the property and a boat already in the water. The only thing that's missing is me, a beer and a fishin' pole. I'll miss the racing, but this is something I've been looking forward to."

But, as always, Clem didn't slam the door shut all the way.

"Lots of drivers have un-retired—some of them several times—and I could be tempted to do the same, providing the right ride comes along."

Proctor will lead the 40-car field—grouped two abreast in 20 rows—for today's 2 p.m. start. The winner is expected to pocket about $3,000 from the $7,500 purse.

Top 10 qualifiers only:
1. Clem Proctor (Paramount) '63 Oldsmobile (Northridge) '64 Plymouth, 105.010 mph.
2. Eddie Aradshaw (Oildale) '65 Chevrolet, 102.756 mph.
3. Ray Elder (Van Nuys) '65 Torino, 102.102 mph.
4. Gene Rinkler (Riverside) '64 Oldsmobile, 101.386 mph.
5. Richard White (Escondido) '63 Ford, 100.139 mph.
6. Jim Johnson (San Bernardino) '67 Chevrolet, 100.143 mph.
7. Jim Wilt (El Cajon) '66 Chevrolet, 100.042 mph.
8. Clint Hutchins (Westminster) '66 Chevrolet, 92.837 mph.

Evert gives Wightman team lead

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Little Chris Evert led the U.S. Wightman Cup women's tennis team to a 2-1 lead over Britain Friday, winning her singles match and providing the impetus for a doubles victory.

The 17-year-old blonde from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., pulled the Americans into the lead after Britain had taken a 1-0 advantage when Joyce Williams defeated Wendy Overton of Washington.

With five of the six top-ranked Americans not on the squad, the U.S. team looked to Miss Evert, and she didn't let them down.

First, she throttled Virginia Wade in singles, 6-4, 6-4, then proved the stronger partner as she and Patti Hogan of La Jolla posted a 7-5, 6-4 doubles victory over Winnie Shaw and Nell Truman.

Four more matches — three singles and a doubles — are scheduled today.

It was Miss Evert's first appearance at Wimbledon, and many of the 2,500 fans had come specially to see her. But she was not noticeably nervous by the bigness of the occasion.

She gunned steadily from her baseline, often clipping the sidelines with uncanny accuracy, and Miss Wade didn't know how to play her.

When the British Star tried to match Miss Evert in baseline duels, it was she who cracked first four times out of five while Miss Evert kept plugging away. When Miss Wade tried to go to the net, Chris picked her spot and calmly steered the ball past her.

181 miles out

Pen Duick has lead to Tahiti

Pen Duick III, a 57-foot sloop from France, edged three miles ahead of scratch yacht Graybeard in the second day of the 3,571-mile race from Los Angeles Harbor to Tahiti.

Skipped by Eric Tabarly, Pen Duick was 181 miles from the starting line as the seven-yacht fleet enjoyed winds of 20 to 25 knots and clear weather.

Graybeard, the 73-foot ketch skippered by L.H. Killam of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, Vancouver, B.C., was followed by Min Bette, a 58-foot yawl skippered by Joe Pollock Jr. of Rose City, Ore., 161 miles out.

Running side-by-side 153 miles out were the 57-foot sloops Aires and Concerto. Skipper Irving Loube of Concerto, flying the colors of Richmond, Calif., YC, reported making a speed of 10 knots.

The 65-foot ketch Siete was only 74 miles out but five miles in front of the fleet's smallest entry, Inisfail, a 47-foot ketch from Seattle, Wash., in this longest of regularly scheduled yacht races.

Doubles match today Smith, Gorman give U.S. 2-0 Cup lead in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A smiling and relaxed Stan Smith swept three quick sets from awestruck Mexican opponent Vincente Zarazua Friday as the U.S. took two singles matches from Mexico in Davis Cup North American zone eliminations.

Smith took his match, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, over Zarazua, making it look easy, while Tom Gorman beat Joaquin Loyo Mayo, 8-6, 6-3, 7-5, to give the U.S. the first two points of the three-day meet.

"Stan played very well," U.S. team captain Dennis Italston said. "Good steady tennis. He was just too strong for Zarazua."

Smith, the No. 1-ranked amateur in the United States, laughed slightly when asked if he had had any problems.

"Zarazua played a few good games but he got very tired near the end," he said.

Smith, who looked twice as tall as Zarazua, got his serve in range quickly, and by the last set was rocketing serves that Zarazua only watched.

In the first match Tom Gorman crushed Mexico's hopes for an early lead by beating Mexican No. 1 player Loyo Mayo in three hard-fought sets.

Gorman, known as a serving ace, had consistent trouble getting his first serve in. He double-faulted seven times, three in the first game of the second set.

"I was very nervous

TeleVues
Go to college, watch Johnny

The other day in this column I was wondering out loud who it is that stays up late enough at night to watch the late night talk shows.

Now I've got the answer — or at least a partial answer.

It's the college students.

According to a study conducted by Gilbert Youth Research Inc., "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" is the top choice for late night television among college students.

But it's the number of collegians who watch Carson that is astounding — unless we can assume that they are hitting the books at the same time.

The study showed that nearly two million collegians — one-third of all full-time college students — watch "Tonight" in a two-week period. It concluded that more than 750,000 collegians view an average "Tonight" telecast, which is even more surprising to me.

Would you have thought that Dick Cavett might be more popular than Carson among the young men and women in college?

According to the study, 34 per cent of all college students viewed the "Tonight" show at least once within a two-week period, whereas 16 per cent watched Cavett.

A FOUR-MAN filming team from the Telecommunications Center of Coast Community College District will leave Sunday on a two-month trip to the Mideast and Europe to begin production of an educational film series on anthropology.

The completed series will be presented on KOCE-TV, Channel 50, UHF Educational Television, to be operated by the Coast Community College District. Channel 50 is scheduled to go on the air sometime next fall, and will be Orange County's first TV station.

Heading the film team, which will produce 42 half-hour educational TV programs over a two-year filming schedule, is Dr. Dwayne Merry, professor of anthropology at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa. The programs, when completed, will form a one-semester college level course on cultural anthropology.

The professional film production team from the Telecommunications Center at Golden West College in Huntington Beach includes Bill Neill, producer-director; Warren Wright, cinematographer, and Terry Nelson, script writer.

FROM THE MAILBAG:

"To paraphrase — 'If you can't find anything wrong with a poem, attack the poet.'"

"Brinkley is competent, intelligent and knowledgeable, which is more than can be said for anyone who criticizes his delivery. I think his voice is unique and interesting. By all means don't listen if his voice is unpleasant to you — you will be the loser...."

—Lucille Toll, Long Beach

"He (Brinkley) rubs me the wrong way to an extent that it is what he says as well as how he says it that I don't like. That's one of the reasons it is nice to have so many channels to pick from."

—Mrs. Abbott, Long Beach

"Personally, I rather like him (Brinkley), but then there is George Putnam (Putnam?). I HATE to watch him! I always have an overwhelming desire to touch him lightly, purely to see if he WOULD tip over!..."

—Catherine E. Jackson, Bellflower

"I agree with your LOW opinion of David Brinkley and I find George Putnam equally irritating."

"I think all at KNBC are excellent."

Anonymous, Long Beach

"Here is my lardy wale against Brinkley — and that goes for his ex-partner Chel Huntley. I thought we got rid of the latter by way of retirement, but darn it, he is back on pay roll earning a fast buck."

"While I'm about it, hope you won't mind my mentioning that, in my opinion, 'Sanford & Son' is the comedy act I have ever seen."

—T. Rudolph C. Hartman, Long Beach
